Metaphysics in Late Ming China Paul K. Hosle,Biyun Dai,2024-11-25 This book provides the first complete English translation of Giulio Aleni s Wanwu Zhenyuan The True Source of the Myriad Things Aleni is one of the most important Jesuit missionaries to China as is evidenced by the fact that he was reverentially called already during his lifetime Confucius from the West Aleni s work first published in 1628 offers precious insight into the ways in which he tried to communicate Western philosophical notions to Confucian literati arguing that only God can be the ultimate source of the world In our introduction we situate this work within Aleni s life and analyze the argument of the text We discuss the Scholastic framework that Aleni uses in his attempt to prove God s existence as well as his arguments against competing positions from native Chinese philosophical traditions particularly Neo Confucianism We also emphasize the importance that Aleni gives to reason as the best possible means of intercultural communication Moreover we have provided numerous annotations to the translation that identify references provide historical and philosophical contextualization and otherwise aid in the appreciation and elucidation of the work This book provides an essential step to render this significant text more accessible to a wider readership interested in Jesuit missionary history and indeed more broadly in cross cultural dialogue and it will also serve as a vital tool for future scholarly research on Aleni s oeuvre Reasons and Empty Persons: Mind, Metaphysics, and Morality Christian Coseru,2023-02-22 Best known for his groundbreaking and influential work in Buddhist philosophy Mark Siderits is the pioneer of fusion or confluence philosophy a boldly systematic approach to doing philosophy premised on the idea that

Metaphysics and Mystery Thomas Dean,2019-07-15 Metaphysics and Mystery The Why Question East and West is a critical analysis comparison and evaluation of philosophical answers Western and Asian to the question Why is there something rather than nothing The question first posed by the 17th C philosopher Leibniz was reintroduced in the 20th C by Heidegger Volume One begins with an introduction that lays out the issues raised by the Why question It then analyzes contemporary Western philosophers who provide either cosmological metaphysical or existential ontological answers to the question It also considers transitional answers that bridge the two Volume Two examines Asian philosophers classical and contemporary who though rejecting the assumptions behind the question put forward nondualist answers that have a direct bearing on it It concludes with an argument for a revised understanding of the Why question that draws on the strengths and weaknesses of these Western and Asian philosophies and explores implications for ethics and religious thought

Classical Indian Metaphysics: Refutations of Realism and the Emergence of New Logic Stephen H. Phillips,1998-01-01 Our knowledge of the most ancient times in India rests mainly on tradition The Puranas the Mahabharata and in a minor degree of Ramayana profess to give accounts from tradition about the earliest occurrences The Rgveda contains historical allusions of which some record contemporary persons and events but more refer to bygone times and persons and are obviously based on tradition Almost all the information therefore comes from tradition The results obtained from an examination of Puranic and epic tradition as well as of the Rgveda and Vedic literature are set forth in the present book which happens to be a pioneering work in the area by an important orientalist of the nineteenth century

A Buddha Land in This World Lajos Brons, 2022 In the early twentieth century Uchiyama Gud Seno o Gir Lin Qiuwu and others advocated a Buddhism that was radical in two respects Firstly they adopted a more or less naturalist stance with respect to Buddhist doctrine and related matters rejecting karma or other supernatural beliefs And secondly they held political and economic views that were radically anti hegemonic anti capitalist and revolutionary Taking the idea of such a radical Buddhism seriously A Buddha Land in This World Philosophy Utopia and Radical Buddhism asks whether it is possible to develop a philosophy that is simultaneously naturalist anti capitalist Buddhist and consistent Rather than a study of radical Buddhism then this book is an attempt to radicalize it The foundations of this radicalized radical Buddhism are provided by a realist interpretation of Yog c ra elucidated and elaborated with some help from thinkers in the broader Tiantai Tendai tradition and American philosophers Donald Davidson and W V O Quine A key implication of this foundation is that only this world and only this life are real from which it follows that if Buddhism aims to alleviate suffering it has to do so in this world and in this life Twentieth century radical Buddhists as well as some engaged Buddhists came to a similar conclusion often expressed in their aim to realize a Buddha land in this world Building on this foundation but also on Mah y na moral philosophy this book argues for an ethics and social philosophy based on a definition of evil as that what is or should be expected to cause death or suffering On that ground capitalism should be rejected indeed but utopianism must be treated with caution as well which raises questions about what it means from a radicalized radical Buddhist perspective to aim for a Buddha land in this world Lajos Brons is a Dutch philosopher and social scientist living in Japan After receiving a PhD from the University of Groningen in the Netherlands for a dissertation on an aspect of the history and philosophy of the social sciences he gradually moved further and further into philosophical territory Currently Lajos is teaching logic ethics and philosophy at a university in Tokyo His research interests are divided over two broad areas in philosophy one is in the overlap of meta ethics and social political philosophy the other is in the intersection of philosophy of language metaphysics and epistemology Research in the former focuses on the relations between death suffering and compassion Research in the latter concerns the relations between language thought and reality and is heavily influenced by the philosophies of Donald Davidson and W V O Quine and by Buddhist philosophy More information about publications and research interests as well as Lajos s blog can be found at www.lajosbrons.net
