Burk, C.L. Drake, 2013-12-20 The continental margins of the world constitute the most impressive and largest physiographic feature of the earth's surface and one of fundamental great geological significance Continental margins have been the subject of increasing attention in recent years an interest focused by a body of new data that has provided new insights into their character This interest was further stimulated by the realization that in addition to the abundant living resources continental margins contain petroleum and mineral resources that are accessible with existing technology This realization along with their basic geological importance has provoked further research into the nature of continental margins throughout the world A summary of these findings as related to both recent and ancient continental margins is the subject of this book At various times in the past we had been approached individually to prepare a basic reference to continental margins we then proposed to do such a volume jointly However the stimulus for the present volume eventually arose from a Penrose Conference arranged through the Geological Society of America This conference was attended by specialists of numerous disciplines and from throughout the world many of whom insisted that such a volume would be both timely and useful Consequently we agreed to undertake the task of assembling this book with the objectives of making it available as soon and as inexpensively as possible Archaeology of Piedra Museo Locality Laura Miotti, Monica Salemme, Darío Hermo, 2022-02-04 This book highlights the knowledge about landscapes and characteristics of the earliest hunter gatherer lifeway in Southern Patagonia It presents an analysis of the archaeological investigations carried

Antarctic Continental Cenozoic Birds Claudia P. Tambussi, Federico Degrange, 2012-12-25 Modern birds Neornithes are represented by two big lineages the Palaeognathae Tinamiformes Ratitae and the Neognathae Galloanserae Neoaves Metaves Coronoaves Both clades sum approximately 10 000 species of which 60% are Passeriformes the most diverse clade of terrestrial vertebrates A comparison between the past and the present reveals a complex and hallmarked evolutionary and biogeographic history which would have begun over 65 million years ago For South America SA this includes 1 the presence of taxa with uncertain affinities and the absence of Passeriformes during the Paleogene 2 a progressive and accelerated increase of the species starting at the Neogene Miocene 3 important extinct lineages e g Phorusrhacidae Teratornithidae that migrate to North America after the rising of the Panam isthmus 4 groups with major diversification in the Neogene that survives nowadays represented by scarce species endemic of SA Cariacidae or that inhabits mainly in the southern hemisphere Anhingidae 5 very diverse living groups with scarce e g Passeriformes or none e g Apodiformes fossil record in SA which stem groups are registered in Europe Apparently the changes in diversity of the south American Neornithes have been the result of successive radiation biogeographic connections with North America and in a minor scale some extinctions The opening of the Drake s passage and the occurrence of the circumpolar Antarctic flow are not sufficient causes to explain the highly disparity between the weddellians penguins Sphenisciformes of Antarctica and those of the patagonian Atlantic Ocean
