Dealing with Government in South Sudan Cherry Leonardi, 2013 Explores various aspects of chiefly authority in South Sudan from its historical origins and evolution under colonial postcolonial and military rule to its current roles and value in the newly independent country South Sudan became Africa's newest nation in 2011 following decades of armed conflict Chiefs or traditional authorities became a particular focus of attention during the international relief effort and post war reconstruction and state building But traditional authority in South Sudan has been much misunderstood Institutions of chiefship were created during the colonial period but originated out of a much longer process of dealing with predatory external forces This book addresses a significant paradox in African studies more widely if chiefs were the product of colonial states why have they survived or revived in recent decades By examining the long term history of chiefship in the vicinity of three towns the book also argues for a new approach to the history of towns in South Sudan Towns have previously been analysed as the loci of alien state power yet the book demonstrates that these government centres formed an expanding urban frontier on which people actively sought knowledge and resources of the state Chiefs mediated relations on and across this frontier and in the process chiefship became central to constituting both the state and local communities Cherry Leonardi is Senior Lecturer in African History at Durham University a former course director of the Rift Valley Institute's Sudan course and a member of the council of the British Institute in Eastern Africa Published in association with the British Institute in Eastern Africa

War Economies and Post-war Crime Sabine Kurtenbach,Angelika Rettberg,2020-05-21 Even when armed conflicts formally end the transition to peace is not clear cut This comprehensive volume explores the mounting evidence which suggests that it is rather unlikely to see a clean break from violence to consent from theft to production from repression to democracy or from impunity to accountability The authors analyse the complex endeavour of transitioning out of war studying how it is often interrelated with other transformations such as changes in the political regime democratisation and in the economy opening of markets to globalisation They explore how in the same way as wars and conflicts reflect the societies they befall post war orders may replicate and perpetuate some of the drivers of war related violence such as high levels of instability institutional fragility corruption and inequality This book thus suggests that even in the absence of a formal relapse into war and the re mobilisation of former insurgents many transitional contexts are marked by the steady and ongoing reconfiguration of criminal and illegal groups and practices This book will be of great interest to students and researchers of political science and peace studies It was originally published as an online special issue of Third World Thematics

Davis, 2018-02-02 This study of the armed wing of the African National Congress also contributes significantly to scholarship on liberation movements more broadly Gary Baines author of South Africa s Border War For nearly three decades the armed wing of the African National Congress ANC known as Umkhonto we Sizwe MK waged a violent revolutionary struggle against the apartheid state in South Africa Stephen Davis works with extensive oral testimonies and the heroic myths that were constructed after 1994 to offer a new history of this movement Davis deftly addresses the histories that reinforce the legitimacy of the ANC as a ruling party its longstanding entanglement with the South African Communist Party and efforts to consolidate a single narrative of struggle and renewal in concrete museums and memorials Davis shows that the history of MK is more complicated and ambiguous than previous laudatory accounts would have us believe and in doing so he discloses the contradictions of the liberation struggle as well as its political manifestations Towards an Anthropology of Wealth Theodoros Rakopoulos, Knut Rio, 2020-06-04 Aiming to redefine the concept of wealth which has too often been reduced to merely accumulated assets this book views wealth primarily as a question of reproduction relational flows and life vitality The authors therefore outline wealth as a triangular phenomenon between capital the commons and power Viewing wealth as firstly a product of relational capacities the book explores the processes wherein it is constantly being pulled at from forces that demand appropriation be that finance community or state The chapters tackle perceptions and practices of wealth in the commons in mythical narrative immaterial substance aristocratic orders antimafia money real and imagined and conspiracy theory with contributions from Melanesia Italy Greece India and Mongolia The comparative perspective lies at the heart of the book bringing together instances of commonwealth and the commons as well as hierarchical relational and substantial understandings of wealth As the first collection in recent decades to address the anthropology of wealth openly in a comparative perspective this book will spark discussions of the concept in anthropology not least at the back of a renewed debate over it due to Piketty s legacy This book was originally published as a special issue of History Anthropology

Socialising Complexity Sheila Kohring,Stephanie Wynne-Jones,2007-11-30 Socialising Complexity introduces the concept of complexity as a tool rather than a category for understanding social formations This new take on complexity moves beyond the traditional concern with what constitutes a complex society and focuses on the complexity inherent in various social forms through the structuring principles created within each society The aims and themes of the book can thus be summarized as follows to introduce the idea of complexity as a tool which is pertinent to the understanding of all types of society rather than an exclusionary type of society in its own right to examine concepts that can enhance our interpretation of societal complexity such as heterarchy materialization and contextualization These concepts are applied at different scales and in different ways illustrating their utility in a variety of different cases to reestablish social structure as a topic of study within archaeology which can be profitably studied by proponents of both processual and post processual methodologies Savannah to Suburbia Mary Edmunds, Nawal El-Gack, 2019-04-01 This book is the story of South Sudanese Australians told in their own voices At one level it s a single story a story of war of loss of violent displacement of the rupturing of ordinary life for these people It tells of years in refugee camps of the journeys that brought them to Australia and of the new life they re forging for themselves and their families here But this story has been experienced by individuals by ordinary people caught up in extraordinary events events that have become all too common in our present world Before Syria South Sudan had already become a byword for never ending relentless civil war famine and desperate children women and men So the story is multi faceted It s many stories and those are the personal stories that make up this book Some of those stories those of the Lost Boys have already been told in books film and song There s almost nothing yet from others especially from the women whose lives were also shattered by these wars Their stories are of the loss of children parents and husbands of the deaths and forced abandonment of newborns of multiple forced displacements But the stories are also stories of survival and resilience The twenty seven people who tell their stories in this book recount the different routes that finally brought them to Australia of their gratitude to be in a country with no war and of their determination to make a contribution and to forge a good life here for themselves and especially for their families and children demonstrating how wrong are political accusations of non integration and sensationalist reporting about African gangs in Melbourne A Poisonous Thorn in Our Hearts James Copnall, 2014-06-01 What happened after Africa s biggest country split in two When South Sudan ran up its flag in July 2011 two new nations came into being In South Sudan a former rebel movement faces colossal challenges in building a new country At independence it was one of the least developed places on earth after decades of conflict and neglect The rump state Sudan has been debilitated by devastating civil wars including in Darfur and lost a significant part of its territory and most of its oil wealth after the divorce from the South In the years after separation the two Sudans dealt with crippling economic challenges struggled with new and old rebellions and fought each other along their disputed border Benefiting from unsurpassed access to the politicians rebels thinkers and events that are shaping the Sudans Copnall draws a compelling portrait of two misunderstood countries A Poisonous Thorn in Our Hearts argues that Sudan and South Sudan remain deeply interdependent despite their separation It also diagnoses the political failings that threaten the future of both countries The author puts the turmoil of the years after separation into a broader context reflecting the voices hopes and experiences of Sudanese and South Sudanese from all walks of life
