being exceptionally successful but now the region is viewed as a resounding economic and social failure Islam is not only a religion but also a political and social project A major pretext of this work is to demonstrate how the tensions within Islamic movements feed directly into the economic social political historical and religious arena of the region and vice versa An introductory chapter sets the context of the book The core chapters of the book comprise an in depth examination of the varied forms of oil revenue abuse For examples the past mismanagement of the tremendous wealth provided by oil Following Islamic beliefs revenue from oil should not finance wasteful consumption but used instead for public welfare Abstaining from interest calculations there should be a case for keeping more oil in the ground Indeed oil has also stifled industrial development and with declining oil revenues the conflict between civilian and military priorities intensifies While western interests have promoted arms spending high population growth expenditure reinforces the reality of the count down to the post oil era upon the Middle Eastern and North African oil exporters So far the governments seem unwilling or unable to adapt and react Furthermore in the past oil has been used as a substitute for democracy While the large oil revenues of the 1970s and early 1980s strengthened the position of autocratic rulers and weakened the private sector repressive regimes have made Islam a source of criticism and opposition for the Western world Following on from this the book then looks forward to the problem of uniting the divergent interests in the spheres of oil and Islam into a cohesive whole The book proposes that ideally Islamic governments would synchronise the depletion of oil reserves with investment in new productive assets Islamic governments could also find ways to combine private domestic and foreign interests in the oil industry The main readership for this book will be policy makers and professionals involved in development issues for Middle Eastern and North African affairs and those with an interest in oil politics and Islamic studies Oil, Islam, and Conflict Robert Johnson, 2007-10-15 The author looks at the policies of the Central Asian governments that includes their attitudes to democratic reform human rights energy and economic development and how these are related to civil violence 150
