Regulating Broadcast Programming Aei Studies In Telecommunications Deregulation:

Regulating Broadcast Programming Thomas G. Krattenmaker, 1994 The authors argue that TV regulation should be based on the same principles used for print media for which control of editorial content lies in private hands rather than the government

Designing Incentive Regulation for the Telecommunications Industry David E. Sappington, Dennis L. Weisman, 1996 This book applies new advances in economic theory regarding the asymmetry of information between firms and their regulators to the design of improved telecommunications regulation

Communications Deregulation and FCC Reform: Finishing the Job Jeffrey A. Eisenach, Randolph J. May, 2012-12-06 Communications markets have made much progress towards competition and deregulation in recent years However it is increasingly clear in the age of the Internet and the digital revolution that much more needs to be done and that new approaches both at the Federal Communications Commission and in Congress will be required to complete the task In this volume the Progress and Freedom Foundation presents nine papers by communications policy experts and government policymakers that show how to finish the job of deregulating communications markets and reforming the FCC The Telecommunications Act of 1996 was a landmark piece of legislation for an industry moving from a monopoly orientation towards competition but additional steps are needed to complete the process of implementing the pro competitive deregulatory vision of the act Bringing together a group of the caliber represented in this book makes possible the best recommendations about the exact nature of those necessary changes In this volume the most difficult and politically charged hot button issues involving local and long distance competition universal service spectrum allocation program content regulation and the public interest doctrine are confronted head on As importantly the authors recommend specific reform proposals to be considered by the Federal Communications Commission and Congress The ideas contained in the experts essays were presented and debated at a conference hosted by The Progress Freedom Foundation which was held in Washington DC on December 8 2000 The Progress Freedom Foundation studies the impact of the digital revolution and its implications for public policy It conducts research in fields such as electronic commerce telecommunications and the impact of the Internet on government society and economic growth It also studies issues such as the need to reform government regulation especially in technology intensive fields such as medical innovation energy and environmental regulation

The Failure of Antitrust and Regulation to Establish Competition in Long-distance Telephone Services Paul W. MacAvoy, 1996 MacAvoy shows how antitrust and regulation have failed to make long distance markets competitive to the detriment of consumers seeking prices in line with the costs of providing long distance services

Journal of Regulatory Economics , 1994

Vertical Integration in Cable Television David Waterman, Andrew Weiss, 1997 The authors address claims that vertical ownership ties reduce programming diversity restrict entry of competitors to cable or have other socially undesirable effects

Public Policy Toward Cable Television Thomas W. Hazlett, Matthew Laurence Spitzer, 1997 This book analyzes the effectiveness of the federal government's vacillating regulatory policy toward the cable television industry International Trade in Telecommunications Ronald A. Cass, John R. Haring, 1998 The authors consider whether any special circumstances justify departure from free trade in telecommunications equipment Is Free TV for Federal Candidates Constitutional? Lillian R. BeVier, 1998 If some members of Congress and the Federal Communications Commission have their way they will mandate free television for federal candidates Universal Service Milton Mueller, 1997 This book revisits the critical period of unbridled competition between the Bell System and independent telephone companies early in this century
