Religious Education Development:

The Development of a Curriculum of Religious Education, 1928 Religious Education Development Gabriel Moran, 1983 On faith development according to his educational theories of Erikson Piaget Kohlberg and Fowler

Readiness for Religion Ronald Goldman, 2018-12-07 In this study first published in 1965 the author explores the implications of research for an alternative approach to religious education The book deals with the psychological bases of religious development reviewing the natural limitations as well as the basic needs of the young and how religious education should be affected by educational theory and practice The author also examines what content and methods of teaching are consistent with the healthy development of children and adolescents Teachers in schools students in training lecturers clergy and ministers and local education authority committees will welcome the book as an important aid to the task of rethinking syllabuses and the need for more child centred methods of teaching Religious Education, 1970 The Development of Religious Education, 1978 The Development of a Curriculum of Religious Education, 1928 Pedagogies of Religious Education Michael Grimmit, 2000 Pedagogies of Religious Education brings together in a single volume the most important and influential research and developmental work in R E undertaken in the past twenty five years For the first time it provides trainee and practising teachers of RE in primary and secondary schools with an invaluable resource for acquiring an informed understanding of the range of styles of learning and teaching which are available to them Adult Religious Education Marie A. Gillen, Maurice C. Taylor, 1995 Essays that contain the latest in theory and practice concerning adult religious education why there is a need for it the many dimensions of it in a community and how we can improve our practices Priorities In Religious Education Brenda Watson, 2003-09-02 A collection of articles which look at the future development of religious education in the light of the 1988 Education Reform Act and at how religious education should now develop in schools It contains practical guidance for meetings and workshops and questions to stimulate further discussion

Christian Faith, Formation and Education Ros Stuart-Buttle, John Shortt, 2017-11-13 This book discusses the relationship between faith formation and education Rooted in a variety of discourses the book offers original insights into the education and formation of the human person both theoretical and practical Issues are considered within a context of contemporary tensions generated by an increasingly pluralist society with antipathy to religious faith and debated from interdenominational Christian perspectives Including chapters by an international team of experts the volume demonstrates how Christian faith holds significance for educational practice and human development It argues against the common assumption that there can be a neutral approach to education whilst at the same time advocating a critical dimension to faith education It brings fresh thinking about faith and formation which demands attention given the fast changing political educational and socio cultural forces of today It will appeal to students and researchers involved in Christian educational practice The Encyclopedia of Sunday Schools and Religious Education John Thomas McFarland, Benjamin Severance Winchester, 1915 Global Perspectives on Catholic Religious Education in Schools Michael T. Buchanan, Adrian-Mario Gellel, 2015-10-05 This book covers theoretical aspects of Catholic Religious Education in schools and examines them from multiple theoretical and contextual perspectives. It captures the contemporary academic and educational developments in the field of Religious Education while discussing in detail the challenges that Religious Educators face in different European, Asian, African, Australian, American, and Latin American countries. The edited collection investigates how to pass on a Catholic heritage as a living tradition in diversely populated schools and communities. In this way, it explores and asserts the proper identity of Catholic Religious Education in dialogue with Catechetics and with the wider discipline of Religious Education. As the different articles of this publication demonstrate through a series of interesting and critical points of view, Catholic Religious Education is confronted with many challenges, from the risk of marginalization to the confusion produced by a religious indifferentism leading to a strictly comparative or neutral method in the study of religions. It is essential to take into account in our research perspectives that Catholic Religious Education is not only a subject but also a mission in the light of the diakonia of truth in the midst of humanity. H. E. Cardinal Zenon Grocholewski, Prefect Congregation for Catholic Education, Holy See, Vatican City. Religious education teachers cannot by themselves overcome the ills of society, but religious education can help to create better citizens of the world, as some authors argue throughout this collection. Could not ask more from such a timely and provocative collection. It is a gift to the profession and to Catholic Religious Education. Prof. Gloria Durka, Fordham University, New York, NY, USA.

MasterClass in Religious Education Liam Francis Gearon, 2013-02-14 MasterClass in Religious Education provides a comprehensive exploration of the major themes in religious education research and pedagogy, drawing on international research. The author draws together historical, theological, religious, and comparative and international perspectives to explore religious education's role in confronting controversial issues and the implications this has for teaching, learning, and research. This book incorporates discussions of current post-9/11 debates on religion in the modern world, focusing particularly on the relationship of religion to secular political contexts. Liam Gearon pays close attention to debates around religion in liberal democratic societies, looking at topics such as citizenship, human rights, and identity.

Religion and Education Malini Sivasubramaniam, Ruth Hayhoe, 2018-01-01 Despite the increased trend towards secularisation in state schooling, issues of religion and spirituality have remained important. Increased pluralism within societies through expanding migration patterns is changing the religious and cultural contours of many countries in Europe and North America and is creating a need for a deeper understanding of religious diversity. However, the lack of religious or spiritual education within the educational curriculum leaves a moral vacuum that can become a space to be exploited by religious extremism. More recently, religiously motivated incidences of terrorism in several parts of the world have heightened prejudicial attitudes and distrust of certain religions in particular. These are profound concerns and there is an urgency to examine how religion, religious education and interfaith initiatives can address such misconceptions. This book is thus timely, focusing on an area that is often neglected, particularly on the role of religion in education for sustainable development. While religious organisations and faith communities have had a long history of involvement in both schooling and social service delivery in many countries, their role in reaching development goals has not always been explicitly recognised, as is evident even in the United Nations' most recently conceptualised 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development. Undeniably, the integration of religious dialogue into mainstream development issues is crucial because deep cleavages resulting from the issue of minority religious rights continue to give cause for concern and conflict in many countries. This edited book explores some of these tensions and issues and draws parallels across differing geographical contexts to help enhance our collective and comparative understanding of the role of religious education and institutions in advancing the post 2015 development agenda. The contributors to this volume each demonstrate that while religion in education can contribute to understanding and respect, it is also a space that can be contested and co-opted. Without addressing the salience of religion, however, it will not be possible to foster peace and combat discrimination and prejudice. This book will be of interest to researchers, scholars and students in the field of comparative education and development, religious studies, theology and teacher development and training. This book may also be of interest to national and international policy makers. There are also numerous faith-based organisations as well as other non-governmental organisations (NGOs) working on religion and education issues that may find these case studies a useful resource.
