Nature, Temporality and Environmental Management Lesley Head, Katarina Saltzman, Gunhild Setten, Marie Stenseke, 2016-08-05 How are different concepts of nature and time embedded into human practices of landscape and environmental management And how can temporalities that entwine past present and future help us deal with challenges on the ground In a time of uncertainty and climate change how much can we hold onto ideals of nature rooted in a pristine and stable past The Scandinavian and Australian perspectives in this book throw fresh light on these questions and explore new possibilities and challenges in uncertain and changing landscapes of the future This book presents examples from farmers gardens and Indigenous communities among others and shows that many people and communities are already actively engaging with environmental change and uncertainty The book is structured around four themes environmental futures mobile natures indigenous and colonial legacies heritage and management Part I includes important contributions towards contemporary environmental management debates yet the chapters in this section also show how the legacy of older landscapes forms part of the active production of future ones Part II examines the challenges of living with mobile natures as it is acknowledged that environments natures and people do not stand still An important dimension of the heritage and contemporary politics of Australia Sweden and Norway is the presence of indigenous peoples As is clear in part III the legacies of the colonial past both haunt and energise contemporary land management decisions Finally part IV demonstrates how the history and heritage of landscapes including human activities in those landscapes are entwined with contemporary environmental management The rich empirical content of the chapters exposes the diversity of meanings practices and ways of being in nature that can be derived from cultural environmental research in different disciplines The everyday engagements between people nature and temporalities provide important creative resources with which to meet future challenges Shaping the Corporate Future Kevin Barham, Clive Rassam, 2025-03-03 First published in 1989 Shaping the Corporate Future describes how executives in some of Europe's leading companies see the future for their organizations It also sets out some of the steps they are taking in an attempt to ensure a successful future The companies that feature in this book range from large well known internationals like ICI Electrolux and Shell UK to medium size firms such as Jaguar BMW and JCB The book discusses important themes like coping with unpredictability 1992 and the global market stimulating freedom and responsibility towards a new idea of management creating the international manager and rethinking the market This is an important reference work for students of business management executive training programs and for corporate professionals

Managing Sustainable Performance and Governance in Higher Education Institutions Federico Cosenz, 2022-05-23 The fast changing evolutionary process of global Higher Education systems systematically poses new challenges related to the appearance of innovative elements that lead academic governing bodies to question current managerial structures and methods Due to this theory and practice have gathered multiple contributions and experiences to support and further develop this evolutionary pathway during the past decades Global competitiveness economic and social growth are driven worldwide by knowledge and innovation In this context Higher Education Institutions play a crucial role as they primarily contribute to knowledge transfer and development and as a result foster regional development employment and economic wealth The relevance of this role leads Universities to explore alternative solutions for managing their performance according to a sustainable perspective This book draws on this flourishing debate on Higher Education policy and management and investigates an innovative systemic perspective to design and implement sustainable performance management systems for academic institutions The conditions for the success of Universities the critical issues underlying the creation of academic value the dynamic complexity characterizing academic governance settings the pluralistic audience of stakeholders and related expectations the causal interplays between organizational performance variables represent some of the central themes around which this work is developed More specifically the book suggests and discusses the adoption of a Dynamic Performance Management approach to frame the inherent organizational complexity of Higher Education Institutions thus supporting a strategic learning perspective to design and implement relevant performance measures This approach originates from the combination between conventional performance management and System Dynamics modeling Many research and practice contributions prove that this methodological combination can boost the understanding and interpretation of value creation processes by identifying and exploring the causal connections amongst strategic resource allocation and consumption corresponding performance drivers emerging outputs and outcomes To test the effectiveness of this approach in University settings a wide range of examples is offered in each book chapter This allows readers to explore the advantages limitations and practical implications of adopting Dynamic Performance Management in Higher Education Institutions as well as guide academic decision makers towards a more robust approach to design and implement strategic management mechanisms in Universities

Forestry Economics John E. Wagner, 2011-07-26 Forestry Economics introduces students and practitioners to all aspects of the management and economics of forestry The book adopts the approach of managerial economics textbooks and applies this to the unique processes and problems faced by managers of forests While most forestry economics books are written by economists for future economists what many future forest and natural resource managers need is to understand what economic information is and how to use it to make better business and management decisions John E Wagner draws on his twenty years of experience teaching and working in the field of forest resource economics to present students with an accessible understanding of the unique production processes and problems faced by forest and other natural resource managers There are three unique features of this book The first is its organization The material is organized around two common economic models used in forest and natural resources management decision making The second is the use of case studies from various disciplines Outdoor and Commercial Recreation Wood Products Engineering Forest Products and Forestry The purpose of these case studies is to provide students with applications of the concepts being discussed within the text The third is revisiting the question of how to use economic information to make better business decisions at the end of each chapter This ties each chapter to the preceding ones and reinforces the hypothesis that a solid working knowledge of these economic models and the information they contain are necessary for making better business decisions This textbook is an invaluable source of clear and accessible information on forestry economics and management for not only economics students but for students of other disciplines and those already working in forestry and natural resources New
