Abstract

1. The first step in the process is to identify the problem or issue that needs to be addressed. This involves gathering information and understanding the context of the problem.
2. Once the problem is identified, the next step is to define the objectives and goals of the project. This helps to clarify what needs to be achieved and provides a clear direction for the team.
3. The third step is to develop a plan or strategy to address the problem. This involves breaking down the problem into smaller, manageable tasks and determining the resources needed to complete each task.
4. The fourth step is to implement the plan. This involves putting the strategy into action and monitoring progress to ensure that the project is on track.
5. The final step is to evaluate the results of the project. This involves assessing the outcomes against the objectives and goals and identifying any areas for improvement.

The 1978-1980 period is characterized by a high level of political and social stability, with a strong emphasis on economic development and social progress. The government has implemented a series of reforms aimed at improving the living standards of the population and promoting economic growth. The country has achieved significant progress in various fields, including education, health, and infrastructure. The political system has remained stable, with a strong commitment to democratic principles and the rule of law. The social environment is characterized by a high level of social cohesion and a strong sense of national identity. The overall situation is one of optimism and hope for a bright future.
