Education in the New China Yvonne Turner, Amy Acker, 2017-07-05 The effects of the deregulation of the Chinese university system have been nothing short of spectacular For the first time since 1949 students possessing neither gifted intellect nor political connections have been able to share in the benefits of higher education while a flood of international educators have opened up a previously cloistered and politically sensitized academic world This fascinating book examines China's higher education system and how its new and unique blend of foreign and Chinese perspectives impact on both the lives of students and academics and wider Chinese society Viewed with suspicion as a new type of Chinese by the older generation and by the government they are at the same time the very entrepreneurs driving the economic and social revolution sweeping the country Using a range of in depth interviews and unique research it provides open and often frank accounts of life work and education in China from the Cultural Revolution to the creation of its market focused entrepreneurial generation Candid and illuminating this is a book no serious reader of Asian studies comparative education or Asian sociology will want to be without Education in China

Janette Ryan, 2019-05-07 Throughout its history education in China has played a pivotal role in the nation's governance civic society and the social and cultural lives of its citizens Today we see a nation grappling with how to modernize and internationalize its education system while still retaining China's intellectual traditions and values in the face of growing educational inequalities This book analyses the historical and contemporary place of education in China and how the past has influenced today's trends Recent fundamental educational reforms have been driven by the need for continuing economic development and a highly skilled workforce at the same time fulfilling the aspirations of its citizens and their desire for the prestige education brings Moreover ideological education plays a key role in enlisting citizens to the national cause Although China has ambitious plans for its education system several problems remain including an examination obsessed system and highly competitive culture which skew the social fabric and dominate family life and childhoods This accessible analysis will be a welcome resource for students of comparative education as well as those across the social sciences interested in Chinese society

Governing Educational Desire Andrew B. Kipnis, 2011-02-15 Parents in China greatly value higher education for their children but the intensity and effects of their desire to achieve this goal have largely gone unexamined until now Governing Educational Desire explores the cultural political and economic origins of Chinese desire for a college education as well as its vast consequences which include household and national economic priorities birthrates ethnic relations and patterns of governance Where does this desire come from Andrew B Kipnis approaches this question in four different ways First he investigates the role of local context by focusing on family and community dynamics in one Chinese county Zouping Then he widens his scope to examine the provincial and national governmental policies that affect educational desire Next he explores how contemporary governing practices were shaped by the Confucian examination system uncovering the historical forces at work in the present Finally he looks for the universal in the local considering the ways aspects of educational desire in Zouping spread throughout China and beyond In doing so Kipnis provides not only an illuminating analysis of education in China but also a thought provoking reflection on what educational desire can tell us about the relationship between culture and government Educating Young Giants N. Pine,2012-05-21 Carries readers into Chinese and American elementary and high school classrooms and highlights the big differences between schooling in China and the United States Nancy Pine reveals how these two countries need to extract themselves from outmoded practice and learn from each other s strengths Education in China Since 1976 Xiufang Wang,2010-06-28 China has the largest education system in the world The total enrollment of students in regular and adult schools at all levels exceeds 320 million accounting for more than a quarter of the nation s population Western educators foreign companies and individual entrepreneurs have invested in Chinese education but perhaps because of the complexity of the Chinese education system and the rapid development of educational reforms have had little success This work examines the education system in post Mao China from 1976 to the present It explores how the Chinese government sees the development of its educational practices within the nation s broader social economic political and cultural contexts how it identifies new issues that emerge in the process of what might be called educational globalization how it translates these issues into specific educational policies activities and goals how the education reforms fit China s social and political realities and objectives how the new policies affect foreign student affairs and Chinese students studying abroad the ways in which the government promotes international educational cooperation and exchange the opportunities for Western institutions to introduce programs in China and current trends and their effect on the internationalization of education
