American Writers and World War I David A. Rennie, 2020-07-31 Looking at texts written throughout the careers of Edith Wharton Ellen La Motte Mary Borden Thomas Boyd F Scott Fitzgerald Laurence Stallings and Ernest Hemingway American Writers and World War I argues that authors war writing continuously evolved in response to developments in their professional and personal lives Recent research has focused on constituencies of identity such as gender race and politics registered in American Great War writing Rather than being dominated by their perceived membership of such socio political categories this study argues that writers reacted to and represented the war in complex ways which were frequently linked to the exigencies of maintaining a career as a professional author War writing was implicated in and influenced by wider cultural forces such as governmental censorship the publishing business advertising and the Hollywood film industry American Writers and World War I argues that even authors hallmark anti war works are in fact characterized by an awareness of the war's nuanced effects on society and individuals By tracking authors war writing throughout their entire careers in well known texts autobiography correspondence and neglected works this study contends that writers reactions were multifaceted and subject to change in response to their developments as writers and individuals This work also uncovers the hitherto unexplored importance of American cultural and literary precedents which offered writers means of assessing the war Ultimately the volume argues American World War I writing was highly personal complex and idiosyncratic

The Air-Line to Seattle Kenneth S. Lynn,1984-10 In this controversial wide ranging and fearlessly candid book Kenneth S Lynn argues that too many of our current commentators on the American past are out of touch with historical reality His targets range from the currently fashionable but fantastic idea that the Declaration of Independence derives from a communitarian rather than individualistic philosophy to misinterpretations of the lives of Emerson Walter Lippmann Hemingway and Max Perkins In each case Lynn reveals the tendency of literary and intellectual historians to impose precooked formulas upon the evidence they profess to study

From Page to Screen / Vom Buch zum Film Manuel Almagro-Jiménez,Eva Parra-Membrives,2020-10-05 For a long time now women have struggled for the vindication of their rights and for their visibility This struggle may seem a story of success maybe not complete or equal for all women but at least one which slowly but surely carries with it the promise of equality for all women However a closer look reveals that in various fields of culture the representation of women frequently undergoes a manipulation which makes the image of women lose the intention initially attempted This is often the case with adaptations of literary texts to the screen when the initial literary message is changed because of for example marketing demands or some ideological stance Rarely do we find the opposite case where the indifferent or emasculated original female characters are turned into guardians and or apologists of feminine power The present volume focuses precisely on the way in which the image of women is modified in films and TV series when compared with the original literary texts
