Seed Fate J. E. Lambert,P. E. Hulme,S. B. Vander Wall,2005 This book presents current knowledge of seed fate in both natural and human disturbed landscapes from various regions of the world Habitats considered range from mountain and arid deserts in the temperate zone to savanna and lowland rainforests in tropical regions of the world Particular attention is paid to plant diversity conservation when seed removal is affected by factors such as hunting habitat fragmentation or intensive logging Contributors include leading scientists involved in research on seed ecology and on animal plant relationships from the perspective of both primary and secondary seed dispersal and predation

Seed Fate: Predation, Dispersal and Seedling Establishment Pierre-Michel Forget,2005 This book presents current knowledge of seed fate in both natural and human disturbed landscapes from various regions of the world Habitats considered range from mountains and arid deserts in the temperate zone to savannas and lowland rain forests in tropical regions Particular attention is paid to plant diversity conservation when seed removal is affected by factors such as hunting habitat fragmentation or intensive logging

Seed Dispersal Andrew J. Dennis,R.J. Green,E.W. Schupp,2007 Fresh concepts in the study of seed dispersal are spurring a host of exciting new questions new answers to old questions new methods and approaches and a reinvigoration of the field Seed Dispersal Theory and its Application in a Changing World presents both recent advances and reviews of current knowledge demonstrating the vigour and vibrancy of the field It provides new perspectives and directions at a time when efforts to meet growing environmental challenges threatening natural systems are of utmost importance

Hardwood Reforestation and Restoration Daniel Gagnon,Benoit Truax,2019-04-25 Hardwood dominated temperate forests mostly in Eastern North America Europe North East Asia provide valuable renewable timber and numerous ecosystem services Many of these forests have been subjected to harvesting or conversion to agriculture sometimes over centuries that have greatly reduced their former extent and diversity Natural regeneration following harvesting or during post agricultural succession has often failed to restore these forests adequately Past harvesting practices and the valuable timber of some species have led to a reduction in their abundance The loss of apex predators has caused herbivore populations to increase and exert intense browsing pressure on hardwood regeneration often preventing it Particularly important are fruit nut and acorn bearing species because of their vital role in forest food webs and biodiversity Restoring hardwood species to natural forests in which they were formerly more abundant will require a number of forest management actions e g resistant hybrids deer exclosures protectors enrichment planting underplanting etc Similarly reforesting areas that were once natural forests will also require new silvicultural knowledge Global warming trends will intensify the need for interventions to maintain the diversity and function of temperate hardwood forests as well as for increase hardwood reforestation

Trees, Forested Landscapes and Grazing Animals Ian D. Rotherham, 2013 In this comprehensive book the critical components of the European landscape forest parkland and other grazed landscapes with trees are addressed The book considers the history of grazed treed landscapes of large grazing herbivores in Europe and the implications of the past in shaping our environment today and in the future Debates on the types of anciently grazed landscapes in Europe and what they tell us about past and present ecology have been especially topical and controversial recently This treatment brings the current discussions and the latest research to a much wider audience The book breaks new ground in broadening the scope of wood pasture and woodland research to address sites and ecologies that have previously been overlooked but which hold potential keys to understanding landscape dynamics Eminent contributors including Oliver Rackham and Frans Vera present a text which addresses the importance of history in understanding the past landscape and the relevance of historical ecology and landscape studies in providing a future vision

The Ecology of Large Herbivores in South and Southeast Asia Farshid Ahrestani,Mahesh Sankaran,2016-04-02 Large terrestrial mammalian herbivores play critical roles in ecosystems by acting as regulators of energy and nutrient cycles modulators of plant community composition and grassland woodland transitions agents of seed dispersal and as prey for large carnivores Though large herbivores represent a prominent component of mammalian assemblages throughout South and Southeast Asia little is known about their roles in ecosystems in the region This volume presents for the first time a collection of studies on the ecology of the rich and diverse large herbivore assemblages of South and Southeast Asia Prepared by experts on herbivores of the region it covers a comprehensive range of topics including their evolutionary history behavioural nutritional and population ecology patterns of diversity across environmental gradients roles as seed dispersers and regulators of plant growth community compositions and their conservation in the face of hunting and global change

Ecology and Conservation of Tropical Ungulates in Latin America Sonia Gallina-Tessaro,2019-11-20 This book brings together the latest information on tropical ungulates in different Latin American countries These animals are not only important from the point of view of their role in different ecosystems but also have cultural value for people The book also discusses topics such as habitat transformation and hunting as these species are an important source of food in many places Addressing ungulate natural communities in diverse ecosystems and countries the book provides information on specific aspects of each of the most representative species and highlights topics to help readers better understand these species and develop effective management and conservation strategies The information presented also reveals the need for more knowledge and will hopefully provide the incentive for continued studies on this important group of animals This publication serves as a reference for academic research on ungulate ecology behavior and dynamics as well as the basis for conservation strategies

Bushmeat harvest in tropical forests Varun Swamy,Miguel Pinedo-Vasquez,2014-10-07 Food security is increasingly becoming a priority for tropical countries This has led to reconsideration of the need to find systems and practices of sustainable harvest consumption and trade of bushmeat and other wildlife products This paper provides a synthesis of information found in the expanding global literature on the many dimensions and functions of game species bushmeat and other game resources Much research effort has focused on documenting and measuring the impact of bushmeat harvesting on populations of targeted game species This has resulted in an emphasis of conservation effort on the protection of game species and the criminalization of hunting bushmeat trade and consumption Despite decades of official bans on bushmeat trade and consumption some socioeconomic studies have shown that bushmeat is often the main source of protein and income for low income urban and rural families in some tropical countries Similarly the role of large and small bodied game species in the sustainable provision of seed dispersion and other ecosystem services are underlined by some ecological and conservation biology studies A great diversity of complex management systems of game species in forests and on agriculture land are reported by some ethnographic studies The encouraging results from some bushmeat studies are an incentives to conduct evidence based studies that can generate knowledge and information that can help policy makers to make informed decisions

The Ecology of Tropical East Asia Richard T. Corlett,2014-08-21 Tropical East Asia is home to over one billion people and faces massive human impacts from its rising population and rapid economic growth It has already lost more than two thirds of its forest cover and has the highest rates of deforestation and logging in the tropics Hunting coupled with the relentless trade in wildlife products threatens all its large and many of its smaller vertebrates Despite these problems the region still supports an estimated 15 25% of global terrestrial biodiversity and is therefore a key area for conservation Effective conservation action depends on a clear understanding of the ecological patterns and processes in the region The first edition of The Ecology of Tropical East Asia was the first book to describe the terrestrial ecology of the entire East Asian tropics and subtropics from southern China to western Indonesia This second edition updates the contents and extends the coverage to include the very similar ecosystems of northeast India and Bhutan The book deals with plants animals and the ecosystems they inhabit as well as the diverse threats to their survival and the options for conservation It provides the background knowledge of the region s ecology needed by both specialists and non specialists to put their own work into a broader context The accessible style comprehensive coverage and engaging illustrations make this advanced textbook an essential read for senior undergraduate and graduate level students studying the terrestrial ecology of the East Asian tropics as well as an authoritative reference for professional ecologists conservationists and interested amateurs worldwide
