Making Race Jacqueline Francis,2012-01-15 Malvin Gray Johnson

Yasuo Kuniyoshi and Max Weber were three New York City artists whose work was popularly assigned to the category of racial art in the interwar years of the twentieth century The term was widely used by critics and the public at the time and was an unexamined unquestioned category for the work of non whites such as Johnson an African American non Westerners such as Kuniyoshi a Japanese born American and ethnicized non Christians such as Weber a Russian born Jewish American The discourse on racial art is a troubling chapter in the history of early American modernism that has not until now been sufficiently documented Jacqueline Francis juxtaposes the work of these three artists in order to consider their understanding of the category and their stylistic responses to the expectations created by it in the process revealing much about the nature of modernist art practices Most American audiences in the interwar period disapproved of figural abstraction and held modernist painting in contempt yet the critics who first expressed appreciation for Johnson Kuniyoshi and Weber praised their bright palettes and energetic pictures and expected to find the residue of the minority artist s heritage in the work itself Francis explores the flowering of racial art rhetoric in criticism and history published in the 1920s and 1930s and analyzes its underlying presence in contemporary discussions of artists of color Making Race is a history of a past phenomenon which has ramifications for the present

Shtetl Jeffrey Shandler,2014-01-15 In Yiddish shtetl simply means town How does such an unassuming word come to loom so large in modern Jewish culture with a proliferation of uses and connotations By examining the meaning of shtetl Jeffrey Shandler asks how Jewish life in provincial towns in Eastern Europe has become the subject of extensive creativity memory and scholarship from the early modern era in European history to the present In the post Holocaust era the shtetl looms large in public culture as the epitome of a bygone traditional Jewish communal life People now encounter the Jewish history of these towns through an array of cultural practices including fiction documentary photography film memoirs art heritage tourism and political activism At the same time the shtetl attracts growing scholarly interest as historians social scientists literary critics and others seek to understand both the complex reality of life in provincial towns and the nature of its wide ranging remembrance Shtetl A Vernacular Intellectual History traces the trajectory of writing about these towns by Jews and non Jews residents and visitors researchers novelists memoirists journalists and others to demonstrate how the Yiddish word for town emerged as a key word in Jewish culture and studies Shandler proposes that the intellectual history of the shtetl is best approached as an exemplar of engaging Jewish vernacularity and that the variable nature of this engagement far from being a drawback is central to the subject s enduring interest
