New Statesman and Nation, 1953 Nation Building in Japan, 1945-1952 Peter K. Frost, 2024-03-28 This book analyzes the Allied Occupation of Japan 1945 1952 It begins by explaining why Japan spent roughly fifty years building its own colonial system and declaring war on China and the Western Allies only to decide after military defeats two atomic bombings and the Soviet declaration of war to surrender before being invaded It goes on to describe the controversial issues surrounding the conduct of the Occupation forces the largely American reform proposals and the shifts in policy as the Cold War developed Particular emphasis is placed on women's issues the Japanese and American reactions to President Truman's decision to fire General Douglas MacArthur the tensions surrounding the requirement that the Japanese allow US military bases to stay in Japan and the still ongoing debate over the American decision to drop two atomic bombs on Japan Despite all this the book concludes that particularly when compared with later Allied nation building efforts in Vietnam Afghanistan and Iraq and the current state of US politics the Occupation experience was on the whole a relatively positive one for both the Japanese and the US Japan alliance
