Relevance Theory Meets Markedness:

Relevance Theory Meets Markedness Peter Schuster, 2003 Rising influence of cognitive sciences on linguistics has been observed recently This work aims at pointing out which role cognitive effort may play in natural language processing From a pragmatic perspective various approaches to a plausible definition of cognitive effort are presented Some introductory sections to pragmatics lead to a discussion on relevance theory Also a variety of markedness concepts are introduced These are examined in regard to their utility for the description of context understood as a psychological construct Finally a natural language processing model is used to describe cognitive effort in the light of diverse learning models Introducing Performative Pragmatics Douglas Robinson, 2013-10-11 This user friendly introduction to a new performative methodology in linguistic pragmatics breaks away from the traditional approach which understands language as a machine Drawing on a wide spectrum of research and theory from the past thirty years in particular Douglas Robinson presents a combination of action oriented approaches from sources such as J L Austin H Paul Grice Harold Garfinkel and Erving Goffman Paying particular attention to language as drama the group regulation of language use individual resistance to these regulatory pressures and nonverbal communication the work also explains groundbreaking concepts and analytical models With a key points section discussion questions and exercises in every chapter this book will be an invaluable resource to students and teachers on a variety of courses including linguistic pragmatics sociolinguistics and interpersonal communication
