Religious Life Today Wasted Or Worsted An Ecological Perspective:

Religious Life Today : Wasted Or Worsted?, 1996 Journey To Wholeness Fr Joseph Prasad Pinto, 2006 Pañca Mahābhūtas Imti Samuel Longkümer, 2009 Indian Theological Studies, 1995 Current Law Index, 1986
International Books in Print, 1986 The Greening of Faith John E. Carroll, Paul Brockelman, 2016-10-04 The recent release of Pope Francis's much discussed encyclical on the environment Laudato Si' On Care for Our Common Home has reinforced environmental issues as also moral and spiritual issues. This anthology, twenty years ahead of the encyclical but very much in line with its agenda, offers essays by fifteen philosophers, theologians, and environmentalists who argue for a response to ecology that recognizes the tools of science but includes a more spiritual approach, one with a more humanistic, holistic view based on inherent reverence toward the natural world. Writers whose orientations range from Buddhism to evangelical Christianity to Catholicism to Native American beliefs explore ways to achieve this paradigm shift and suggest that the environment is not only a spiritual issue but the spiritual issue of our time. A Greener Faith Roger S. Gottlieb, 2006-06-15 In a time of darkening environmental prospects, frightening religious fundamentalism, and moribund liberalism, the remarkable and historically unprecedented rise of religious environmentalism is a profound source of hope. In A Greener Faith, Roger S. Gottlieb chronicles the promises of this critically important movement, illuminating its principal ideas, leading personalities, and ways of connecting care for the earth with justice for human beings. He also shows how religious environmentalism breaks the customary boundaries of religious issues in political life. Asserting that environmental degradation is sacrilegious, sinful, and an offense against God, catapults religions directly into questions of social policy, economic and moral priorities, and the overall direction of secular society. Gottlieb contends that a spiritual perspective applied to the Earth provides the environmental movement with a uniquely appropriate way to voice its dream of a sustainable and just world. Equally important, it helps develop a world-making political agenda that far exceeds interest group politics applied to forests and toxic incinerators. Rather, religious environmentalism offers an all-inclusive vision of what human beings are and how we should treat each other and the rest of life. Gottlieb deftly analyzes the growing synthesis of the movement's religious, social, and political aspects as well as the challenges it faces in consumerism, fundamentalism, and globalization. Highly engaging and passionately argued, this book is an indispensable resource for people of faith, environmentalists, scholars, and anyone who is concerned about our planet's future. Pollution and the Death of Man Francis August Schaeffer, 1970 Integral Ecology and the Fullness of Life Anthony J. Kelly, 2018 Explores the horizon in which a new sense of conscious connections with the biosphere of this earth, the encompassing cosmic reality, and the singularity of Christian revelation might come to expression. Is It Too Late? John B. Cobb Jr., 2021-04-20 In the fifty years since its initial publication, Is It Too Late? has proven its prescience in ways both significant and dire. As the first book-length philosophical and theological analysis of the environmental crisis, this work introduced a generation to the key elements of crisis while suggesting ways that religion can be a force for hope rather than an instrument of despair Covering an ambitious range of issues from deforestation to abortion from religious views of the natural world to the need for technological innovation to avoid nature's destruction John Cobb moves deftly from philosophical to theological to scientific learning and integrates these interdisciplinary insights into a compelling vision for what he calls a new Christianity Comprehensive in scope non technical in expression and concise in length Is It Too Late provides the scholar and the student alike with a readable and compelling orientation to the philosophical and theological stakes of ecology This Fortress edition includes a new preface in which Cobb reflects on the current situation the specific promises and perils we now face and how his own thinking on matters theological and ecological has evolved in the last half century

The Earth in God's Economy E. M. Conradie, 2015 Ecological destruction is taking place on such a scale that it prompts the need to make sense of the world in which we live and of this moment in history This study explores the ecological significance of seeing the world as the whole household of the triune God and more specifically in terms of God's acts of house holding economy including creation salvation and eschatological consummation Series Studies in Religion and the Environment Studien zur Religion und Umwelt Vol 10 Subject Religious Studies Environmental Studies Ecology Nature and the Environment in Contemporary Religious Contexts Thomas Donlin-Smith, Muhammad Shafiq, 2018-06-11 This collection of essays discusses the human relationship with and responsibilities toward the natural environment from the perspective of religions and the social sciences The chapters examine a variety of conditions that have contributed to the contemporary environmental crisis including abuse of power economic greed industrialization deforestation and unplanned waste management They then discuss concepts from several different religious texts and traditions that promote environmental protection as a sacred moral duty for all humanity Religious concepts such as dharma duty toward Mother Earth tikkun Olam repair of the world khalifa people as deputies of God on earth amanah the universe as a trust in human hands and paticca samuppada dependent co arising are employed to argue that all the components of the biosphere are integral to the cosmos each piece with its own value and role in the harmony of the whole The book makes it clear that religions can become more green and play a helpful role in raising our ecological consciousness and supporting preservation of the environment into the future

Visions of a New Earth Harold Coward, Daniel C. Maguire, 1999-11-04 One of the most significant topics of our time is the current eco crisis of overpopulation overconsumption often called affluenza and environmental degradation In Visions of a New Earth eight world religion scholars and two creative international economists address these linked problems by bringing religious perspective into conversation with economics They conclude that religion and other cultural forces must be mobilized to force humankind toward an epochal birthing of bio reverence Traditions discussed include Christianity Judaism Islam Buddhism Hinduism and Chinese Native American and African religions Contributors include Nawal H Ammar Harold Coward Rita M Gross Catherine Keller Paul F Knitter David C Korten David R Loy Daniel C Maguire Alberto M Nera S J Vasudha Narayanan Jacob K Olupona ecology Religion and Ecological Crisis Todd LeVasseur, Anna Peterson, 2016-07-01 In 1967 Lynn White Jr's seminal article The Historical Roots of Our Ecologic Crisis was published essentially establishing the academic study of religion and nature. White argues that religions particularly Western Christianity are a major cause of worldwide ecological crises. He then asserts that if we are to halt let alone revert anthropogenic damages to the environment we need to radically transform religious cosmologies. White's hugely influential thesis has been cited thousands of times in a variety of disciplines including but not limited to religious studies, environmental ethics, history, ecological science, philosophy, psychology, and anthropology. In practical terms, the ecological crisis to which White was responding has only worsened in the decades since the article was published. This collection of original essays by leading scholars in a variety of interdisciplinary settings including religion and nature, environmental ethics, animal studies, ecofeminism, restoration ecology, and ecotheology considers the impact of White's arguments, offering constructive criticism as well as reflections on the ongoing ever-changing scholarly debate about the way religion and culture contribute to both environmental crises and to their possible solutions. Religion and Ecological Crisis addresses a wide range of topics related to White's thesis including its significance for environmental ethics and philosophy, the response from conservative Christians and evangelicals, its importance for Asian religious traditions, ecofeminist interpretations of the article, and which perspectives might have ultimately been left out of his analysis. This book is a timely reflection on the legacy and continuing challenge of White's influential article. Choosing Life Jay D. McDaniel, John B. Cobb, Jr., 2020-09-14 How do our spiritual beliefs and practices link to our ethics and our care for the natural world around us? John B. Cobb Jr. and Jay McDaniel join together to provide a view of life that is refreshing, challenging, and expansive. It could even be called all-encompassing. Rather than looking just at how human life can be preserved with the world itself and the universe beyond as a sort of backdrop, they look at life and divinity in all things and ask us to look for a way of life that affirms God's presence everywhere. As a result of such an affirmation, we may need to change not just our practices but our very goals. We may need to allow our ambitions to be tempered by the needs of others, not just other human beings but other living creatures and all nature. If you would like to develop and consider a world where humanity fits with the web of all life, if you would like to find a way of living non-destructively, if you would like to find a God who suffers with you while working with you to heal and prevent suffering, this book is for you. Eco-reformation Lisa E. Dahill, Jim B. Martin-Schramm, James B. Martin-Schramm, 2016 In 2017 Christians around the world will mark the five hundredth anniversary of the Reformation. In the midst of many appeals for reformation today, a growing number of theologians, scholars, and activists around the world believe Reformation celebrations in 2017 and beyond need to focus now on the urgent need for an Eco-Reformation. The rise of industrial fossil fuel-driven capitalism and the explosive growth in human population endanger the fundamental planetary life support systems on which life as we know it has evolved. The collective impact of human production, consumption, and reproduction is undermining the ecological systems that support human life on Earth. If human beings do not reform their relationship with God's creation unspeakable suffering will befall many especially the weakest and most vulnerable among all species The conviction at the heart of this collection of essays is that a gospel call for ecological justice belongs at the heart of the five hundredth anniversary observance of the Reformation in 2017 and as a if not the central dimension of Christian conversion faith and practice into the foreseeable future Like Luther's Ninety Five Theses this volume brings together critical biblical pastoral theological historical and ethical perspectives that constructively advance the vision of a socially and ecologically flourishing Earth Five hundred years ago the Reformation shook European society's foundations by challenging a corrupted religious order In recent decades Protestant churches have joined those who care for the earth aiming to shake the foundations of our hyper capitalist technocratic world order that violates the integrity of creation on a titanic scale These essays from leading voices from within the Protestant eco reformation issue the challenge and inspiration we all need to hear Fletcher Harper Executive Director GreenFaith In the footsteps of the religious reformer Martin Luther who called attention to the spiritual urgencies of his day the authors in this timely volume express a critical and an expansive Lutheran voice for the urgent care of creation and the common good The essays make a compelling point that honoring and choosing life in its different forms belongs at the center of the re-orientation and paradigm shifts with the Reformation legacy Kirsi Stjerna Lutheran History and Theology Chair Pacific Lutheran Theological Seminary of California Lutheran University It is refreshing to see the power of argument and of organizing inherent in these words For people of faith these questions could not be more real or timely Bill McKibben from the Foreword Lisa E Dahill is Associate Professor of Religion at California Lutheran University Thousand Oaks California From 2005 to 2015 she served on the faculty of Trinity Lutheran Seminary Columbus Ohio She is a scholar and translator of Dietrich Bonhoeffer and the author of Reading from the Underside of Selfhood Bonhoeffer and Spiritual Formation Pickwick 2007 and many other works on spirituality worship eco theology and the larger ecological expression of Christian life James B Martin Schramm is Professor of Religion at Luther College in Decorah Iowa He is an ordained member of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America and holds a doctorate in Christian ethics from Union Theological Seminary in New York City He is the author or coauthor of several publications including Climate Justice Ethics Energy and Climate Policy 2010 and Earth Ethics A Case Method Approach 2015
