Remapping The Home Front Locating Citizenship In British Womens Great War Fiction:

Remapping the Home Front Debra Rae Cohen,2002 An examination of how wartime rhetoric in World War I influenced the home front fiction of four British women writers Violet Hunt Rose Macaulay Stella Benson and Rebecca West The Women's Land Army in First World War Britain B. White,2014-07-16 Between 1917 and 1919 women enlisted in the Women's Land Army a national organisation with the task of increasing domestic food production Behind the scenes organisers laboured to not only recruit an army of women workers but to also dispel public fears that Britain's Land Girls would be defeminized and devalued by their wartime experiences Landscapes and Voices of the Great War Angela K. Smith,Krista Cowman,2017-02-03 This volume continues the recent trend towards expanding definitions of war experience through considering a range of different landscapes and voices Not all landscapes were comprised of trenches and barbed wire Voices supporting or dissenting were many and varied Collectively they combine to offer fresh insights into the multiplicity of war experience alternate spaces to the familiar tropes of mud and mayhem Encyclopedia of British Women's Writing 1900-1950 Ashlie Sponenberg,2015-12-23 This study provides a comprehensive and wide ranging resource which includes information on many previously neglected British women writers novelists poets dramatists autobiographers and topics It provides contextualizing material with concise introductions to related topics including organizations movements genres and publications Shell Shock, Memory, and the Novel in the Wake of World War I Trevor Dodman,2015-09-09 Shell Shock Memory and the Novel in the Wake of World War I explores the narrative traces subaltern faces and commemorative spaces of shell shock in wartime and postwar novels by Mulk Raj Anand Ford Madox Ford Mary A Ward George Washington Lee Ernest Hemingway F Scott Fitzgerald and Christopher Isherwood This book argues that World War I novels serve as an untapped source of information about shell shock and renews our present understanding of the condition by exploring the nexus of shell shock and practices of commemoration Shell shock novelists testify to the tenaciousness and complexity of the disorder write survivors into visibility and articulate the immediacy of wounds that remain to be seen This book helps readers understand more fully the extent to which shell shock continues to shape and trouble modern memories of the First World War Teaching Representations of the First World War Debra Rae Cohen,Douglas Higbee,2017-07-01 Offers pedagogical techniques for teaching First World War literature in the college classroom including considerations of gender queerness modernism pacifism imperialism code switching children's books graphic novels community based learning the Middle East South Asia and the influenza pandemic Contains information on reference works and online resources Gives syllabus suggestions for undergraduate and graduate courses The Short Story and the First World War Ann-Marie Einhaus,2013-07-31 Covering a range of topics settings and styles the book offers the first comprehensive study of short fiction from the First World War Handbook of British Literature and Culture of the First World War Ralf Schneider,Jane Potter,2021-09-20 The First World War has given rise to a multifaceted cultural production like no other historical event This handbook surveys British literature and film about the war from 1914 until today The continuing interest in World War I highlights the interdependence of war experience the imaginative re creation of that experience in writing and individual as well as collective memory In the first part of the handbook the major genres of war writing and film are addressed including of course poetry and the novel but also the short story furthermore it is shown how our conception of the Great War is broadened when looked at from the perspective of gender studies and post colonial criticism The chapters in the second part present close readings of important contributions to the literary and filmic representation of World War I in Great Britain All in all the contributions demonstrate how the opposing forces of focusing and canon formation on the one hand and broadening and revision of the canon on the other have characterised British literature and culture of the First World War

The Cambridge Companion to War Writing Kate McLoughlin,2009-07-16 War writing is an ancient genre that continues to be of vital importance Times of crisis push literature to its limits requiring writers to exploit their expressive resources to the maximum in response to extreme events This Companion focuses on British and American war writing from Beowulf and Shakespeare to bloggers on the War on Terror Thirteen period based chapters are complemented by five thematic chapters and two chapters charting influences This uniquely wide range facilitates both local and comparative study Each chapter is written by an expert in the field and includes suggestions for further reading A chronology illustrates how key texts relate to major conflicts The Companion also explores the latest theoretical thinking on war representation to give access to this developing area and to suggest new directions for research In addition to students of literature the volume will interest those working in war studies history and cultural studies

Commemorative Modernisms Kelly Alice Kelly,2020-07-06 Reconsiders the relationship between the Great War and modernism through women s literary representations of deathProvides the first sustained study of death and commemoration in women s literature in the wartime and postwar periodOffers a reconsideration of the relationship between the First World War and literary modernism through the lens of women s writing Considers the literary impact of the vast mortality of the First World War and the culture of war commemoration on British and American women s writingOne of the key questions of modern literature was the problem of what to do with the war dead Through a series of case studies focusing on nurse narratives Edith Wharton Katherine Mansfield H D and Virginia Woolf as well as visual and material culture this book provides the first sustained study of women s literary representations of death and the culture of war commemoration that underlie British and American literary modernism Considering previously neglected writing by women in the war zones and at home as well as the marginalised writings of well known modernist authors and drawing on international archival research this book demonstrates the intertwining of modernist war and memorial culture and broadens the canon of war writing

The Cambridge Companion to the Literature of the First World War Vincent Sherry, 2005-01-20 The Great War of 1914-1918 marks a turning point in modern history and culture. This Companion offers critical overviews of the major literary genres and social contexts that define the study of the literatures produced by the First World War. The volume comprises original essays by distinguished scholars of international reputation who examine the impact of the war on various national literatures, principally Great Britain, Germany, France, and the United States, before addressing the way the war affected Modernism, the European avant-garde, film, women's writing, memoirs, and of course the war poets. It concludes by addressing the legacy of the war for twentieth-century literature. The Companion offers readers a chronology of key events and publication dates covering the years leading up to and including the war and ends with a current bibliography of further reading, organised by chapter topics.

The Cambridge Companion to the Poetry of the First World War Santanu Das, 2013-11-18 This Companion offers a major re-examination of the poetry of the First World War at the start of the war's centennial commemoration.

Fiction and 'The Woman Question' from 1850 to 1930 W. R. Owens, Alexis Weedon, Nicola Darwood, 2020-07-02 This book is about how The Woman Question was represented in works of fiction published between 1850 and 1930. The essays here offer a wide-ranging and original approach to the ways in which literature shaped perceptions of the roles and position of women in society. Debates over The Woman Question encompassed not only the struggle for voting rights but gender equality more widely. The book reaches beyond the usual canonical texts to focus on writers who have in the main attracted relatively little critical attention in recent years: Stella Benson, Kate Chopin, Marie Corelli, Dinah Mulock Craik, Clemence Dane, Arthur Conan Doyle, George Gissing, Ouida, and William Hale White, who wrote under the pseudonym Mark Rutherford. These writers dealt imaginatively with issues such as marriage, motherhood, sexual desire, adultery, and suffrage, and they represented female characters who, in varying degrees and with mixed success, sought to defy the social, sexual, and political constraints placed upon them. The collection as a whole demonstrates how fiction could contribute in striking and memorable ways to debates over gender equality, debates which continue to have relevance in the twenty-first century.

Domestic Modernism, the Interwar Novel, and E.H. Young Chiara Briganti, Kathy Mezei, 2016-12-05 Domestic Modernism, the Interwar Novel, and E. H. Young provides a valuable analytical model for reading a large body of modernist works by women who have suffered not only from a lack of critical attention but from the assumption that experimental modernist techniques are the only expression of the modern. In the process of documenting the publication and reception history of E. H. Young's novels, the authors suggest a paradigm for analyzing the situation of women writers during the interwar years. Their discussion of Young in the context of both canonical and noncanonical writers challenges the generic label and literary status of the domestic novel, as well as facile assumptions about popular and middlebrow fiction, canon formation, aesthetic value, and modernity. The authors also make a significant contribution to discussions of the everyday and to the burgeoning field of homeculture, as they show that the fictional embodiment and inscription of home by writers such as Young, Virginia Woolf, Elizabeth Bowen, Ivy Compton-Burnett, Lettice
