Since The Prague Spring The Continuing Struggle For Human Rights In Czechoslovakia:

Since the Prague Spring Hans-Peter Riese, 1979-01-01 Human Rights Activism and the End of the Cold War

Sarah B. Snyder, 2011-06-20 Two of the most pressing questions facing international historians today are how and why the Cold War ended Human Rights Activism and the End of the Cold War explores how in the aftermath of the signing of the Helsinki Final Act in 1975 a transnational network of activists committed to human rights in the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe made the topic a central element in East West diplomacy As a result human rights eventually became an important element of Cold War diplomacy and a central component of détente Sarah B Snyder demonstrates how this network influenced both Western and Eastern governments to pursue policies that fostered the rise of organized dissent in Eastern Europe freedom of movement for East Germans and improved human rights practices in the Soviet Union all factors in the end of the Cold War

Since the Prague Spring Hans-Peter Riese, 1979 This volume presents a collection of letters concerning the Prague Spring The Prague Spring was a period of political liberalization in Czechoslovakia during the era of its domination by the Soviet Union after World War II It began in January 1968 when reformist Slovak Alexander Dubček came to power and continued until that August when the Soviet Union and members of its Warsaw Pact allies invaded the country to halt the reforms The Prague Spring reforms were an attempt by Dubček to grant additional rights to the citizens in an act of partial decentralization of the economy and democratization The freedoms granted included a loosening of restrictions on the media speech and travel After the invasion Czechoslovakia entered a period of normalization subsequent leaders attempted to restore the political and economic values that had prevailed before Dubček gained control of the Communist Party of Czechoslovakia KSC Gustav Husák who replaced Dubček and also became president reversed almost all of Dubček's reforms The letters can be divided into various categories political statements letters relaying the personal experiences of the writers to Gustav Husák and appeals from relatives of political prisoners written directly to Gustav Husák letters written to various Czechoslovak institutions during the Spring and letters written by the Czechoslovak opposition to media outlets and politicians in the West during the late 1970s

Czech Law in Historical Contexts Jan Kuklík, 2015 The legal system of the present day Czech Republic would not be understood properly without sufficient knowledge of its historical roots and evolution This book deals with the development of Czech law from its initial origins as a form of Slavic law to its current position reflecting the influence of the legal systems of neighbouring countries and that of Roman law The reader can see how a legal system originally based on custom developed into written and codified law Czech law was fully dependent upon developments within the Luxemburg Jagiellonian and primarily Habsburg monarchies although some features remained autonomous The 20th century is particularly important in the development of the Czech state and law of today namely due to the establishment of an independent Czechoslovakia in 1918 and its split in 1992 giving rise to the independent identities of the Czech Republic and the Slovak Republic It was a century encompassing periods of democratic as well as totalitarian regimes political ideological economic and social changes stemming from such transformations were projected into and reflected in the system of Czechoslovak and Czech law It can therefore serve as a case study for researchers interested in the transition of democratic legal systems into totalitarian regimes and vice versa
