Singapore Towards The Year 2000:

The Future of Singapore Kamaludeen Mohamed Nasir, Bryan S. Turner, 2014-05-09 Singapore like many other advanced economies has a relatively low and declining birth rate One consequence of this and a consequence also of the successful economy is that migrants are being drawn in and are becoming an increasing proportion of the overall population This book examines this crucial development and assesses its likely impact on Singapore society politics and the state It shows that although Singapore is a multi ethnic society migration and the changing ethnic mix are causing increasing strains putting new demands on housing education and social welfare and changing the make up of the workforce where the government is responding with policies designed to attract the right sort of talent The book discusses the growing opposition to migration and explores how the factors which have underpinned Singapore s success over recent decades including a cohesive elite with a clearly focused ideology a tightly controlled political system and strong continuity of government are at risk of being undermined by the population changes and their effects The book also compares the position in Singapore with other East Asian countries including Japan South Korea and the Philippines which are also experiencing population changes with potentially far reaching consequences

Singapore's Health Care System: What 50 Years Have Achieved Kandiah Satkunanantham, Chien Earn Lee, 2015-11-13
How did Singapore's health care system transform itself into one of the best in the world It not only provides easy access but its standards of health care not only in curative medicine but also in prevention are exemplary Fifty years ago the infant mortality rate IMR was 26 per thousand live births today the IMR is 2 Life expectancy was 64 years then today it is 83 The Singapore Medicine brand is trusted internationally and patients are drawn to Singapore from all over the world And while many countries struggle to finance their health care Singapore has developed a health care financing framework that makes health care affordable for its people and gives sustainability to the health care system Reliability is provided by a professional workforce that seeks to continually learn improve and become ever more proficient with cutting edge technology while emphasizing the relational aspects of health care by nurturing compassion and maintaining high standards of integrity Convenience and safety are enhanced by a unifying IT system that enables the portability of medical records across health care institutions All these have been achieved not by chance but by careful planning strong leadership and dedicated people who are prepared to learn from Singapore's own experience while adapting best practices from around the world But the system is not without challenges not least those of an aging population and an increasing market influence This book provides a fascinating insight into the development of Singapore's health care system from the early days of fighting infections and providing nutrition supplementation for school children to today's management of lifestyle diseases and high end tertiary care It also discusses how the system must adapt to help Singaporeans continue to live well live long and with peace of mind Post Report ,1990 Series of pamphlets on countries of the world revisions issued Singapore Towards the Year 2000 Swee-Hock Saw, R. S. Bhathal, 1981 World Tourism Today K K Sharma, 2004 Southeast Asian Affairs 2004 Chin Kin Wah, 2004 An annual review of significant developments and trends in the region Though the emphasis is on ASEAN countries Developments in the broader Asia Pacific region are not ignored Readable and easily understood analyses are offered of major political Economic Social And strategic developments within Southeast Asia The volume contains twenty articles dealing with such major themes as international conflict and co operation Political stability And economic growth and development Creative Economies, Creative Cities Lily Kong, Justin O'Connor, 2009-05-19 Justin O Connor and Lily Kong The cultural and creative industries have become increasingly prominent in many policy agendas in recent years Not only have governments identified the growing consumer potential for cultural creative industry products in the home market they have also seen the creative industry agenda as central to the growth of external markets. This agenda stresses creativity, innovation, small business growth and access to global markets, all central to a wider agenda of moving from cheap manufacture towards high value added products and services. The increasing importance of cultural and creative industries in national and city policy agendas is evident in Hong Kong, Singapore, Taiwan, South Korea, Beijing, Shanghai and Guangzhou, Australia and New Zealand and in more nascent ways in cities such as Chongqing and Wuhan. Much of the thinking in these cities/countries has derived from the European and North American policy landscape. Policy debate in Europe and North America has been marked by ambiguities and tensions around the connections between cultural and economic policy, which the creative industry agenda posits. These become more marked because the key drivers of the creative economy are the larger metropolitan areas so that cultural and economic policy also then intersect with urban planning policy and governance.

Merlion And Mt.

Fuji, The: 50 Years Of Singapore-japan Relations Tai Wei Lim, 2016-11-28. Anime, Manga, Sushi, Teriyaki, J-pop, Harajuku fashion: these are just some of the cultural exports from Japan that the rest of the world have embraced and Singapore is one of Japan's biggest fans. Singaporeans have benefited not just by being a consumer of the many technological advances from Japan (Mitsubishi, Toyota, Honda, Panasonic and Sony to name a few) but also shared and learnt through economic, political and intellectual exchanges over the past 50 years since the start of the bilateral ties between these two nations. In 1868, Japan was the first East Asian country that underwent rapid modernization and its development was shared with Singapore from the 1970s onwards as the Japanese growth model was selectively emulated by the Four Asian Tigers (Hong Kong, Singapore, South Korea and Taiwan). Currently, as the most advanced economies in Southeast and Northeast Asia respectively, Singapore and Japan will continue to be demonstrative case studies of economic development in the region. There are similarities too between these two countries: an aging population, changing geopolitical realities, mature economies and environmental challenges. The Merlion and Mt. Fuji is not just a historical account of the bilateral cooperation but also includes honest narratives on what it is like being a Singaporean student on exchange in Japan, an anime and manga fan outside of Japan and some omotenashi appreciation. Financial Systems, Corporate Investment in Innovation, and Venture Capital
