Struever,2023-05-31 In the articles collected here Nancy Struever explores the basic assumption that rhetoric is not simply a bag of persuasive tricks but functions necessarily as a mode of inquiry investigating not simply the mechanics of production and reception of discourse but the psychological factors of reason and passion engaged by the assertion modification and contest of beliefs and dispositions of the civil communities The first section looks both at contemporary historians employing rhetorical constructs and tactics and at contemporary accounts of the employment of rhetorical pedagogical material and theoretical texts in medieval and Renaissance cultural practices The second set of articles considers change and continuity in the rhetorical exploitation s of genre forms in cultural programs focuses on the strong reorientation of Classical forms of moral inquiry on the ingenious use of the proverb of etymology of the exemplum as well as on the changes in strategies in the theater the novel and art criticism The final section deals with the strong historical interconnections of rhetoric with other disciplines the motives and investigative tactics of medicine and rhetoric in the Renaissance and Early Modernity and the shared interests and interwoven careers of rhetoric and law

Jus Gentium in Humanist Jurisprudence

rhetoical texts and surviving archival materials McCahill reconstructs the niche that scholars carved for themselves as they penned vivid descriptions of Rome and offered remedies for contemporary social economic religious and political problems In addition to analyzing the humanists intellectual and professional program McCahill investigates the different agendas that popes Martin V 1417 1431 and Eugenius IV 1431 1447 and their cardinals had for the post Schism pontificate Reviving the Eternal City illuminates an urban environment in transition and explores the ways in which curialists collaborated and competed to develop Rome s ancient legacy into a potent cultural myth

Permanent Crisis Paul Reitter,Chad Wellmon,2023-04-05 Any reader of the Chronicle of Higher Education can tell you that the humanities are in crisis Seen as irrelevant for modern careers and hopelessly devoid of funding humanistic disciplines seem at the mercy of modernizing forces driving the university towards academic pursuits that pull in grant money and direct students to lucrative careers But as Paul Reitter and Chad Wellmon show this crisis isn t new in fact it s as old as the humanities themselves Today s humanities scholars experience and react to basic pressures in ways that are strikingly similar to the response of their nineteenth century German counterparts In German universities of the 1800s as in those in the United States today humanities scholars felt threatened by the very processes that allowed the modern humanities to flourish such as institutional rationalization and the commodification of knowledge But Reitter and Wellmon also emphasize the constructive side of crisis discourse They claim that the self understanding of the modern humanities didn t merely take shape in response to a perceived crisis it also made crisis a core part of its project The humanities came into their own by framing themselves as a unique resource for resolving crises of meaning and value that threatened other cultural or social goods With this critical historical perspective Permanent Crisis can take humanists beyond the usual scolding exhorting and handwringing into clearer more effective thinking about the fate of the humanities Furthering ideas from Max Weber and Friedrich Nietzsche to Andrew Delbanco and William Deresiewicz Reitter and Wellmon dig into the notion of the humanities as a way to find meaning and coherence in the world
