An Introduction to International Relations and Religion Jeffrey Haynes, 2014-04-23 Not so very long ago it seemed reasonable to assert that the influence of religion on global politics was on the wane As the Western world became increasingly secular and the process of globalisation deepened it seemed inevitable on the surface at least that the voice of religion was to be heard softly if it was to be heard at all This has now changed and changed perhaps irrevocably As Jeff Haynes argues in this thought provoking and important new book various religious actors are now significantly involved in international relations and have become a crucial influence on policy in a post Westphalian world International Relations and Religion guides the reader through the complex issues at the heart of this topic with clarity and insight This updated second edition starts with a close reading of the many theoretical and analytical concepts notably Huntington and the clash of civilisations that have grown up around this area and then concludes with a summary of the issues under discussion and attempts to put into context what it means to live in a world that is increasingly shaped by a whole host of diverse religious groups Essential reading for students of International Relations and Politics

Scriptures, Shrines, Scapegoats, and World Politics Zeev Maoz, Errol A Henderson, 2020-03-19 The effect of religious factors on politics has been a key issue since the end of the Cold War and the subsequent rise of religious terrorism However the systematic investigations of these topics have focused primarily on the effects of religion on domestic and international conflict Scriptures Shrines Scapegoats and World Politics offers a comprehensive evaluation of the role of religion in international relations broadening the scope of investigation to such topics as the relationship between religion and cooperation religion and conflict and the relationship between religion and the quality of life Religion is often manipulated by political elites to advance their principal goal of political survival Zeev Maoz and Errol A Henderson find that no specific religion is either consistently more bellicose or consistently more cooperative than other religions However religious similarity between states tends to reduce the propensity of conflict and increase the opportunity for security cooperation The authors find a significant relationship between secularism and human security

Religion in International Relations Theory Nukhet Sandal, Jonathan Fox, 2013-06-19 There is a growing realization among international relations scholars and practitioners that religion is a critical factor in global politics The Iranian Revolution the September 11 attacks the ethno religious conflicts such as the ones in the former Yugoslavia and Sri Lanka are among the many reasons for this increased focus on religion in international affairs The rise of religious political parties across the world ranging from the Christian Democrats in Europe to Bharatiya Janata Party in India similarly illustrated religion s heightened international profile Despite all this attention it is challenging to situate religion within a discipline which has been dominantly secular from its inception Only a few existent works have ventured to integrate religion into core international relations theories such as Classical Realism Neorealism Neoliberalism Constructivism and the English school This work is the first systematic attempt to comparatively assess the place of religion in the aforementioned theoretical strands of international relations with contemporary examples from around the world Written in an accessible and systematic fashion this book will be an important addition to the fields of both religion and international relations Nukhet A Sandal is Assistant Professor in the Political Science Department at Ohio University Jonathan Fox is Professor in the Department of Political Studies at Bar Ilan University Israel

Power, Postcolonialism and International Relations Chowdhry Geeta, Sheila Nair, 2003-09-02 Chowdhry and Nair along with the authors of this volume make a timely vital and deeply necessary intervention in international relations one that informs theoretically enriches our knowledge of the world through its narratives and forces us to confront the differentiated wholeness of our humanity Readers will want to emulate the skills and sensibilities they offer Naeem Inayatullah Ithaca College This work uses postcolonial theory to examine the implications of race class and gender relations for the structuring of world politics It addresses further themes central to postcolonial theory such as the impact of representation on power relations the relationship between global capital and power and the space for resistance and agency in the context of global power asymmetries Meaning and International Relations Peter Mandaville, Andrew Williams, 2015-04-15 This innovative volume brings together specialists in international relations to tackle a set of difficult questions about what it means to live in a globalized world where the purpose and direction of world politics are no longer clear cut What emerges from these essays is a very clear sense that while we may be living in an era that lacks a single universal purpose ours is still a world replete with meaning The authors in this volume stress the need for a pluralistic conception of meaning in a globalized world and demonstrate how increased communication and interaction in transnational spaces work to produce complex tapestries of culture and politics Meaning and International Relations also makes an original and convincing case for the relevance of hermeneutic approaches to understanding contemporary international relations Religious NGOs in International Relations Karsten Lehmann, 2016-01-29 Over the last 30 years non governmental organizations NGOs have become increasingly present in international discourses and active in international decision making Among the estimated several million NGOs in existence today an increasingly visible number of organizations are defining themselves in religious terms referring to themselves as religious spiritual or faith based NGOs This book documents the initial encounters between the particularly international segment of those organizations and the UN while at the same time covering the Protestant and Catholic spectrum that dominated the early years of their activities in the UN context This book focuses on the construction of the human rights discourse inside two religiously affiliated organizations The Commissions of the Churches on International Affairs CCIA and Pax Romana IMCS ICMICA These organizations have been formally accredited as NGOs by the UN label themselves as religious and look back upon a long and intense cooperation with the UN Lehmann presents material from the archives of those two organizations that has so far rarely been used for academic analysis In doing so as well as documenting the encounters between those organizations and the UN and looking at the Protestant and Catholic spectrum the book provides new insights into the very construction of the notions of the religious and the secular inside those organizations This work will be of great interest to all students of religion and international relations and will also be of interest to those studying related subjects such as global institutions comparative politics and international politics The Ashgate Research Companion to Modern Theory, Modern Power, World Politics Nevzat Soguk, Scott G Nelson, 2016-04-28 Deliberately eschewing disciplinary and temporal boundaries this volume makes a major contribution to the de traditionalization of political thinking within the discourses of international relations Collecting the works of twenty five theorists this Ashgate Research Companion engages some of the most pressing aspects of political thinking in world politics today The authors explore theoretical constitutions critiques and affirmations of uniquely modern forms of power past and present Among the themes and dynamics examined are textual appropriation and representation materiality and capital formation geopolitical dimensions of ecological crises connections between representations of violence and securitization subjectivity and genderization counter globalization politics constructivism biopolitics post colonial politics and theory as well as the political prospects of emerging civic and cosmopolitan orders in a time of national religious and secular polarization Radically different in their approaches the authors critically assess the discourses of IR as interpretive frames that are indebted to the historical formation of concepts and to particular negotiations of power that inform the main methodological practices usually granted primacy in the field Students as well as seasoned scholars seeking to challenge accepted theoretical frameworks will find in these chapters fresh insights into contemporary world political problems and new resources for their critical interrogation
