Witnessing the Disaster Michael Bernard-Donals, Richard Glejzer, 2003-12-15 Witnessing the Disaster examines how histories films stories and novels memorials and museums and survivor testimonies involve problems of witnessing how do those who survived and those who lived long after the Holocaust make clear to us what happened How can we distinguish between more and less authentic accounts Are histories more adequate descriptors of the horror than narrative Does the susceptibility of survivor accounts to faulty memory and the vestiges of trauma make them any more or less useful as instruments of witness And how do we authenticate their accuracy without giving those who deny the Holocaust a small but dangerous foothold These essayists aim to move past the notion that the Holocaust as an event defies representation They look at specific cases of Holocaust representation and consider their effect their structure their authenticity and the kind of knowledge they produce Taken together they consider the tension between history and memory the vexed problem of eyewitness testimony and its status as evidence and the ethical imperatives of Holocaust representation

The Politics of Time Peter Osborne, 2020-05-05 If Aristotle sought to understand time through change might we not reverse the procedure and seek to understand change through time Once we do this argues Peter Osborne it soon becomes clear that ideas such as avant garde modern postmodern and tradition which are usually only treated as markers for empirically discrete periods movements or styles are best understood as categories of historical totalization More specifically Osborne claims such ideas involve distinct temporalizations of history giving rise to conflicting politics of time His book begins with a consideration of the main aspects of modernity and develops through a series of critical engagements with the major twentieth century positions in the philosophy of history He concludes with a fascinating history of the avant garde intervention into the temporality of everyday life in surrealism the situationists and the work of Henri Lefebvre

Themes in Modern European History Since 1945 Rosemary Wakeman, 2003-06-26 Twelve chapters consider the key political cultural and economic changes of post 1945 Europe Place in Literature Roberto Maria Dainotto, 2000 Since the 1840s when Victorian England emerged into the modern era and industrial cities became the new cultural centers regionalist literature has posited itself as an aesthetic alternative to nationalist culture Yet what differentiates regionalism's claims of authenticity derived from blood and soil from those of nationalism Through close readings and theoretical elaborations Roberto M Dainotto reveals the degree to which regionalism mimics nationalism in valorizing ethnic purity He interprets regionalism not as a genre in the pastoral tradition but as a rhetorical trope a way of reading in which regionalism figures as the other against a historical process that disrupts the organic wholeness of place Dainotto traces the genealogy of the idea of place in literature examining European texts from Victorian England to Fascist Italy He finds for example in Thomas Hardy's The Return of the Native a virtual thesaurus of regionalist commonplaces Elizabeth Gaskell's North and South mediates between Madame de Stal's privileging of the sophisticated north and Jean Jacques Rousseau's nostalgia for the naive south The regionalism of the Sicilian philosopher Giovanni Gentile exhibits a deep longing for the humanities as they define Italy and Western culture Dainotto concludes with a close look at the rhetoric of Nazism and Fascism dramatizing the convergence of regionalist aesthetics and nationalist ideology in Italy and Germany between the two World Wars
