Restoring The British Tigermoth:

Restoring the British Tigermoth H. Tom Gardner, 2001-11-26 The Tiger Moth was a pre WWII sport and training plane built by the British Nearly every Spitfire pilot learned to fly in the Tiger Moth This is how one found in India came to the US

The Tiger Moth Story Alan Bramson, 2020-05-05 The Tiger Moth is one of the major aviation success stories in the history of British aviation Developed by Geoffrey de Havilland and flown for the first time on October 26 1931 the biplane became the most important elementary trainer used by Commonwealth forces More than 1 000 Tiger Moths were delivered before WWII and subsequently around 4 000 were built in the UK with an extra 2 000 being manufactured in Canada

Australia and New Zealand Following the end of WWII pilots could buy and modify a Tiger Moth for recreational use or agricultural crop spraying and use it relatively cheaply This combined with its popularity within the aero club movement provided employment for the Tiger Moths until the late fifties when the more modern closed cockpit aircraft began to force them into retirement This new edition provides a comprehensive account of the aircraft s origins and its development as a trainer of Commonwealth pilots in times of peace and war It also looks at some of the other roles which this versatile little aeroplane performed such as a crop duster glider tug aerial advertiser bomber coastal patrol plane and aerial ambulance Technical narrative and drawings handling ability and performance as seen through the eyes of the pilots combine to make The Tiger Moth Story the most comprehensive book of the aircraft

Wreck Recovery In Britain Peter J Moran, 2018-10-30 Whereas on the Continent the Missing Research and Enquiry Unit left no stone unturned to try to trace the thousands of airmen who still remained missing strangely enough no similar operation was carried out by the RAF on crash sites in the United Kingdom Many of these still contained the mortal remains of pilots whose names had been added to the Memorial to the Missing unveiled at Runnymede in 1953 It is difficult to understand today how it took so long for the realization to sink in that aircraft wreckage still remained buried When it did there followed what can only be described as an unholy scramble to find crash sites and dig them up heavy plant being employed to make it easier and quicker At the height of this unfettered exploration period during the 1970s there were over 30 aviation archaeology groups at work particularly in the counties of Essex Kent and Sussex Unrecovered human remains were now being found which understandably raised criticism from some quarters Inevitably order had to be restored and the Ministry of Defence stepped in with a code of conduct for digging up crashed aircraft a measure that was reinforced by an Act of Parliament in 1986 Thereafter a process was introduced whereby the Ministry issued licenses before a wreck site could be excavated and every license application whether granted or refused is listed for the first time in this book
