Rethinking Urban Parks:

Rethinking Urban Parks Setha Low, Dana Taplin, Suzanne Scheld, 2005-11-01 Annotation A study of five major urban parks including New York's Prospect Park and Philadelphia's Independence National Historical Park that offers a blueprint for promoting and maintaining cultural diversity in parks around the world Rethinking Urban Parks Setha M.

Low, Dana Taplin, Suzanne Scheld, 2009-05-21 A study of public recreation space and how urban developers can encourage ethnic diversity through planning that supports multiculturalism Urban parks such as New York City's Central Park provide vital public spaces where city dwellers of all races and classes can mingle safely while enjoying a variety of recreations By coming together in these relaxed settings different groups become comfortable with each other thereby strengthening their communities and the democratic fabric of society But just the opposite happens when by design or in ignorance parks are made inhospitable to certain groups of people This pathfinding book argues that cultural diversity should be a key goal in designing and maintaining urban parks Using case studies of New York City's Prospect Park Orchard Beach in Pelham Bay Park and Jacob Riis Park in the Gateway National Recreation Area as well as New York's Ellis Island Bridge Proposal and Philadelphia's Independence National Historical Park the authors identify specific ways to promote maintain and manage cultural diversity in urban parks They also uncover the factors that can limit park use including historical interpretive materials that ignore the contributions of different ethnic groups high entrance or access fees park usage rules that restrict ethnic activities and park restorations that focus only on historical or aesthetic values With the wealth of data in this book urban planners park professionals and all concerned citizens will have the tools to create and maintain public parks that serve the needs and interests of all the public Book Review: Rethinking Urban Parks: Public Space and Cultural

After Modernism David Dewar, Fabio Todeschini, 2017-07-05 For the last seven decades urban settlement policy worldwide has been increasingly dominated by modernist precepts and by urban decisions made in discipline specific silos The urban management consequences have been invariably negative with increasing sprawl fragmentation and separation resulting in a wide range of environmental social and economic problems This book explores the role of movement in a more integrated approach to urban settlement and how thinking policies and actions need to change South Africa is used as a particularly good case study since patterns of sprawl fragmentation and separation have been exacerbated by apartheid while recent legislation has demanded a reversal of these tendencies Deconstructing the High Line Christoph Lindner, Brian
