Corpus-based Approaches to Contrastive Linguistics and Translation Studies , 2021-08-04 Corpus based Approaches to Contrastive Linguistics and Translation Studies presents readers with up to date research in corpus based contrastive linguistics and translation studies showing the high degree of complementarity between the two fields in terms of research methodology interests and objectives Offering theoretical descriptive and applied perspectives the articles show how translation and contrastive approaches to grammar lexis and discourse can be harmoniously combined through the use of monolingual bilingual and multilingual corpora and how contrastive information needs to inform translation research and vice versa The notion of contrastive linguistics adopted here is broad thus alongside comparisons of Malay English idioms and the French imparfait and its English equivalents there are articles comparing different varieties of French and sign language with spoken language This collection should be of interest to researchers in corpus linguistics contrastive linguistics and translation studies In addition the section on corpus based teaching applications will be of great value to teachers of translation and contrastive linguistics Anaphoric Relations in English and French

Francis Cornish, 2015-07-03 First published in 1986 this book focuses on Anaphoric relations in the English and French languages a phenomenon that involves a complex interaction between grammar and discourse Studies of anaphora taking a largely textual approach to the subject have tended to underestimate the effect upon its formation of referential and discourse factors while studies framed within a psycholinguistic and computational perspective have been inclined to minimise the importance of the purely linguistic features connected with anaphora This volume places the study of anaphora upon a firmer foundation by examining both its nature and functions in discourse by pinpointing the range of factors relevant to its operation in the two languages under study and by attempting to relate the textual and interactional perspectives within a more comprehensive framework Practising French Grammar Marie-Noëlle Lamy, Richard Towell, Roger

Hawkins, 2025-01-31 Practising French Grammar fifth edition offers a set of varied and accessible exercises for developing a practical awareness of French as it is spoken and written today Practising French Grammar provides concise summaries of key grammatical points at the beginning of each exercise as well as model answers to the exercises and translations of difficult words The lively examples and authentic texts have been updated to reflect current usage This is an invaluable resource for students and teachers of French at the intermediate to advanced levels This book can be used alone or as the ideal companion to the fifth edition of French Grammar and Usage by Richard Towell Marie No lle Lamy and Roger Hawkins available to purchase separately ISBN 978 1 032 44463 5 An Instructor and Student Resource site also accompanies the book and offers additional resources at <https://routledgelearning.com/frenchgrammarandusage>

The Structure of Modern Standard French Maj-Britt Mosegaard Hansen, 2016-04-16 This book is an advanced student s grammar of French that integrates traditional grammar with knowledge and insights from modern linguistics Maj Britt Mosegaard Hansen takes a structural approach to French grammar she provides clear descriptions of grammatical rules based explicitly on syntactic structure and places descriptive emphasis on instances where the grammatical structures of French differ from those used in corresponding contexts in English The first part of the book provides an introduction to French sentence structure before the following parts examine the grammar of verbs nominals particles and clauses and sentences The Structure of Modern Standard French will be a valuable resource for students of French at undergraduate level and beyond It assumes some prior knowledge of French grammar but is designed to be accessible to those with no background in linguistics The Advanced Learner Variety Emmanuelle Labeau, 2009 This volume originates from a workshop entitled Revisiting advanced varieties in L2 learning organized by the editors at Aston University Birmingham UK in June 2006 It consists of a peer reviewed selection of the best contributions Many different approaches have been used in the study of advanced learners and their characteristics Specific areas of language have repeatedly been found to remain problematic even at advanced levels and much empirical research has been carried out In particular areas of grammar such as the tense or agreement systems often pose difficulties as well as lexical idiosyncrasies such as formulaic sequences and the discourse pragmatic constraints operating in French This volume brings together recent research exploring the advanced learner capabilities in each of those domains as well as possible explanations for the difficulties they raise for the L2 learner of French Additionally one of the areas which has received considerable attention in the French L2 literature on advanced learners tense and aspect is also explored from the point of view of French learners of English to explore any parallels In presenting this research the book clarifies the concept of the advanced learner how does s he differ from native speakers and why Universals in Comparative Morphology Jonathan David Bobaljik, 2012-10-05 An argument for and account of linguistic universals in the morphology of comparison combining empirical breadth and theoretical rigor This groundbreaking study of the morphology of comparison yields a surprising result that even in suppletion the wholesale replacement of one stem by a phonologically unrelated stem as in good better best there emerge strikingly robust patterns virtually exceptionless generalizations across languages Jonathan David Bobaljik describes the systematicity in suppletion and argues that at least five generalizations are solid contenders for the status of linguistic universals The major topics discussed include suppletion comparative and superlative formation deadjectival verbs and lexical decomposition Bobaljik s primary focus is on morphological theory but his argument also aims to integrate evidence from a variety of subfields into a coherent whole In the course of his analysis Bobaljik argues that the assumptions needed bear on choices among theoretical frameworks and that the framework of Distributed Morphology has the right architecture to support the account In addition to the theoretical implications of the generalizations Bobaljik suggests that the striking patterns of regularity in what otherwise appears to be the most irregular of linguistic domains provide compelling evidence for Universal Grammar The book strikes a unique balance between empirical breadth and theoretical detail The phenomenon that is the main focus of the argument suppletion in adjectival gradation is rare enough that Bobaljik is able to present an essentially comprehensive description of the facts at the same time it is common enough to offer sufficient variation to explore the question of universals over a significant dataset of more than three hundred languages Translation, Linguistics, Culture Nigel Armstrong, 2005-05-11 This book takes a linguistic approach to translation issues looking first at the structural view of language that explains the difficulty of translation and at theories of cultural non equivalence A subsequent chapter on text types readership and the translator s role completes the theoretical framework The linguistic levels of analysis are then discussed in ascending order from morpheme up to sentence while a summarising chapter considers various translation types and strategies again considered in relation to text type author and reader
