Reflections is a book of memories but it is equally a book about memory Speaking of herself as well as other Holocaust survivors Agi Rubin notes We survivors are a bundle of contradictions We push away the past and we are constantly drawn back to it When we are here we are also there And when we are there we are also here Survivors Agi tells us are jugglers Life goes on death goes on and survivors themselves go on somewhere in between What is it like to live within such contradictions While most survivor memoirs end at liberation Reflections follows the fate of Holocaust memories over the course of an entire life Agi describes in detail her initial awakening and the journey home being a young survivor in the giddy limbo of postwar recreating lives and families in the United States responding to the unanticipated surge of interest in the Holocaust in recent years Throughout the inner dialogue with memory deepens New experiences reflect old ones says Agi They put them in a different light or a different darkness These reflections are the story this book tells about Auschwitz memory and a life recreated Timeless Reflections Cathy L. to unconscious processing Film has the potential to reveal the vast panorama of Holocaust history as well as its intrapsychic reverberations Yet despite the recent prominence of Holocaust films documentaries and TV series as well as scholarly books and memoirs these works lack a psychoanalytic optic that elucidates themes such as the repetition compulsion survival guilt disturbances in identity and disruption of mourning that are underlying leitmotifs Cinematic Reflections on the Legacy of the Holocaust will be of great interest to psychoanalysts and therapists as well as to scholars in trauma film and Jewish studies It is also of interest to those concerned with the prevention of genocide and mass atrocities and their long term effects

Cultural Psychology of Coping with Disasters Manfred Zaumseil, Silke Schwarz, Mechthild von Vacano, Gavin Brent Sullivan, Johana E. Prawitasari-Hadiyono, 2013-11-21 This book offers a broad theoretical foundation by relating and contrasting relevant international literature with the outcomes of a particular research project It provides a critical reevaluation of the complex phenomena of coping with disasters on a general level by applying this integrative theory of disaster coping to a specific context A cultural psychological model is developed in order to suggest ways of understanding and assessing local and cultural specificity This interaction of the general and locally specific is central to our understanding of cultural psychology of coping with disaster The book provides a basic overview by presenting various approaches to coping with natural disasters and relating them to each other in a coherent manner So far most research approaches either focus on technical social psychological or cultural aspects of coping neglecting their interconnectedness Coping is seldom seen as an extensive long term process in which disaster relief complexly interacts and is integrated with the local actors and conditions Until now a perspective is missing in which the mentioned modes of coping are integrated with cultural interpretations and practices and long standing forms of communal self help which possibly develop in places that are frequently threatened by natural disasters
