American Book Publishing Record, 2005 A Phenomenological Hermeneutic of Antiracist Racism in The Autobiography of Malcolm X David Polizzi, 2019-06-04 This text provides a phenomenological account of the experience of anti black racism as described by Malcolm X Central to this analysis is the phenomenology that emerges over the course of Malcolm s life which emerges through the various personal transformations that the autobiography introduces and explores As this process unfolds a variety of different aspects of lived experience can be witnessed that becomes situated within the process of naming that Malcolm employs to situate the specifics of his experience For example the phenomenology of Malcolm s early childhood experience is defined by two very different competing definitions for blackness Though Malcolm Little and his family exist or find themselves thrown within a social structure that employs a narrative of anti black racism his parents are able to provide a powerful alternative meaning for blackness that is informed by the perspective taken from the Marcus Garvey Movement of the early 1900s When that narrative is effectively silenced given Malcolm s separation from his family the positive meanings for black being in the world disappear and leave Malcolm with few alternatives to this new reality As the Autobiography moves forward Malcolm s experience becomes defined by the phenomenology that these overlapping narratives construct During certain moments of this phenomenology the negative aspects of anti black racism seem to impose very specific challenges to Malcolm s lived experience that become difficult to overcome and in others powerful alternative meanings for black being in the world are taken up and successfully employed to address the consequences of this type of racism Though the fact of anti black racism is never actually defeated Malcolm s relationship to this process is drastically transformed over the course of his reflection Remembering, Second Edition Edward S.
