Companion to the American Short Story Alfred Bendixen, James Nagel, 2010-02-12 A Companion to the American Short Story traces the development of this versatile literary genre over the past 200 years. Sets the short story in context, paying attention to the interaction of cultural forces and aesthetic principles. Contributes to the ongoing redefinition of the American canon with close attention to the achievements of women writers as well as such important genres as the ghost story and detective fiction. Embraces diverse traditions including African American, Jewish American, Latino, Native American, and regional short story writing. Includes a section focused on specific authors and texts from Edgar Allan Poe to John Updike.

Raymond Carver Carol Sklenicka, 2009-11-24 The first biography of America's best known short story writer of the late twentieth century. The London Times called Raymond Carver the American Chekhov. The beloved mischievous but more modest short story writer and poet thought of himself as a lucky man whose renunciation of alcohol allowed him to live ten years longer than he or anyone expected. In that last decade Carver became the leading figure in a resurgence of the short story. Readers embraced his precise, sad, often funny and poignant tales of ordinary people and their troubles: poverty, drunkenness, embittered marriages, difficulties brought on by neglect rather than intent. Since Carver died in 1988 at age fifty, his legacy has been mythologized by admirers and tainted by controversy over a zealous editor's shaping of his first two story collections. Carol Sklenicka penetrates the myths and controversies. Her decade-long search of archives across the United States and her extensive interviews with Carver's relatives, friends, and colleagues have enabled her to write the definitive story of the iconic literary figure. Laced with the voices of people who knew Carver intimately, her biography offers a fresh appreciation of his work and an unbiased, vivid portrait of the writer.

Painting the House Bibhu Padhi, 1999 Painting the House is the fourth collection of poems from a poet who has now been published in magazines and periodicals throughout the English-speaking world. Inward-looking and at the same time deeply rooted in cultural and interpersonal realities, these poems speak to the heart in their own universal language.

Masculinity and Place in American Literature since 1950 Vidya Ravi, 2019-05-15 American literature has long celebrated the figure of the self-made man and the idea of establishing selfhood, particularly male selfhood in nature. However, during the crisis of masculinity that swept across America in the middle of the twentieth century, a generation of writers started exploring a different kind of a man. This was a figure who was concerned not so much with the loss of the West or the desire to recover a wilderness but with how to live in an ordinary, domesticated continent. Masculinity and Place in American Literature since 1950 explores the role of place in negotiating, reinforcing, and subverting articulations of hegemonic masculinity in the work of four American writers from the latter part of the 20th century: John Cheever, John Updike, Raymond Carver, and Richard Ford. The book argues that American fiction by white male writers between the 1950s and the present day is compelled by the troubled and troubling relationship between masculinity and place. This relationship is deeply embedded in how ideals of masculinity are predicated upon the experience of the physical world and how the symbolic logic of masculinity is continually subverted by alternative conceptions of dwelling and ecological consciousness
