Right To Housing:

A Right to Housing Rachel G. Bratt, Michael E. Stone, Chester W. Hartman, 2006 An examination of America's housing crisis by the leading progressive housing activists in the country The Right to Housing Jessie Hohmann, 2013-03-01 A human right to housing represents the law's most direct and overt protection of housing and home Unlike other human rights through which the home incidentally receives protection and attention the right to housing raises housing itself to the position of primary importance However the meaning content scope and even existence of a right to housing raise vexed questions Drawing on insights from disciplines including law anthropology political theory philosophy and geography this book is both a contribution to the state of knowledge on the right to housing and an entry into the broader human rights debate It addresses profound questions on the role of human rights in belonging and citizenship the formation of identity the perpetuation of forms of social organisation and ultimately of the relationship between the individual and the state The book addresses the legal theoretical and conceptual issues providing a deep analysis of the right to housing within and beyond human rights law Structured in three parts the book outlines the right to housing in international law and in key national legal systems examines the most important concepts of housing space privacy and identity and finally looks at the potential of the right to alleviate human misery marginalisation and deprivation The book represents a major contribution to the scholarship on an under studied and ill defined right In terms of content it provides a much needed exploration of the right to housing In approach it offers a new framework for argument within which the right to housing as well as other under theorised and contested rights can be reconsidered reconnecting human rights with the social conditions of their violation and hence with the reasons for their existence Shortlisted for The Peter Birks Prize for Outstanding Legal Scholarship 2013

The Right to Adequate Housing Rajindar Sachar, United Nations Centre for Human Rights, 1996 A new timely publication made all the more urgent by the enormity of the global housing crisis with inadequate housing threatening the health safety dignity of so many An invaluable addition to the already successful Human Rights Study Series The Right to housing in law and society Nico Moons, 2018-05-16 From the very first negotiations of the International Covenant on Economic Social and Cultural Rights half a century ago to the present day socio economic rights have often been regarded as less enforceable than civil and political rights The right to adequate housing even though protecting one of the most basic needs of human beings has not escaped this classification Despite its strong foundations in international regional and domestic legislation many people are still deprived of one or more of the different key elements that comprise adequate housing How then can international human rights theory and case law be developed into effective vehicles at the domestic level Rather than focusing merely on possibilities for individualized relief through the court system The Right to Housing in Law and Society looks into more effective socio economic rights realization by addressing both conceptual and practical stumbling blocks that hinder a more structural progress at the national level The Flemish and Belgian housing legislation and policy are used to highlight the problems and illustrate the pathways here presented While first and foremost legal in its approach the book also offers a more sociological perspective on the functioning of the right to housing in practice It shows the latest state of knowledge on the topic and will be of interest to researchers academics policymakers and students in the fields of international socio economic rights law and human rights law more generally Housing Rights Legislation ,2002

Evictions and the Right to Housing International Development Research Centre (Canada),1998 Evictions and the Right to Housing Experience from Canada Chile the Dominican Republic South Africa and South Korea Ignored and Unequal: Roma Access to the Right to Housing and Education in Turkey Ulaş Karan,2017-06-22 Turkey s Roma population and similar social groups such as Abdal have long been among the country s most marginalized communities Despite being guaranteed in both domestic and international law in practice for many Roma the right to education and housing remains out of reach however limited data on the disparities and discrimination they face has contributed to their continued invisibility in public life Ignored and Unequal Roma Access to the Right to Housing and Education in Turkey provides a detailed overview of these communities challenges and the ways forward for these issues to be addressed Roma communities suffer some of the worst housing conditions in the country characterized by inadequate basic services insecure land rights and physical segregation These settlements are also especially vulnerable to destruction and relocation to accommodate urban development a reality that can leave communities in a protracted state of displacement Roma students face considerable barriers to accessing education and continue to enjoy far lower levels of attainment due to discrimination Besides economic and geographic constraints a range of issues including discrimination in the classroom non inclusive curricula and the segregation of many children into poorly performing Roma schools have entrenched unequal learning outcomes These communities will continue to be sidelined from mainstream society until these rights gaps are effectively addressed While there has been some progress in recent years with the government developing a number of policies that officially recognize the challenges they experience it remains to be seen if the current strategies will produce positive results This publication provides a series of concrete steps for authorities that if effectively implemented could bring about lasting change for Roma and similar social groups in Turkey The Human Right to Housing in the Face of Land Policy and Social Citizenship Michael Kolocek,2017-08-02 This book explores the human right to housing presenting the findings of a global discourse analysis to analyse the right to housing from the perspective of theories on land policy and social citizenship The book concludes that planners and policy makers will not be able to completely fulfil the human right to housing For that reason the book presents a theory of de commodification of land use that highlights the meaning of land use rights for people affected by inadequate housing Students and scholars across a range of disciplines including social policy global social policy human rights law discourse theory and sociology will find this study of interest The Right to Housing Mary Sullivan Mann,1976 The Idea of Home in Law Lorna Fox O'Mahony,James A. Sweeney,2016-03-03 The Idea of Home in Law

Displacement and Dispossession explores an important set of legal and policy issues surrounding the concepts of home and homelessness taking a growing area of legal scholarship into the new arena of human rights and international law The collection considers the ideas concerning home both in the sense of the dwelling place as a special type of property and territorial claims to homeland which underpin many contemporary legal problems by examining a range of contexts where people are displaced or dispossessed from their homes The essays focusing on dispossession consider themes ranging from mortgage and rent arrears in the UK to responses to the foreclosure crisis in the USA and from eviction for the purposes of economic development in South Africa to the exclusion of asylum seekers from the UK's social housing and welfare provision and within the framework of the European Convention on Human Rights The displacement theme meanwhile examines transnational home issues from the experiences of exiles and refugees in areas of conflict to the impact of the broader context of economic social and cultural rights on attempts to protect housing and home through international law At the heart of each essay the contributors experts from across the fields of law policy and housing rights examine the circumstances in which displacement and dispossession take place and reconsider how law and policy respond to such circumstances with a particular focus on the impact of loss of home for the human person At a time of particular and increasing concern about security of tenure and the role of law and policy in protecting people who are vulnerable to forced eviction The Idea of Home in Law presents a bold opportunity to raise questions about the rights and norms associated with housing and home and to generate new insights for scholarship and for national and international policy debates concerning displacement and dispossession
