complications from a gangrenous leg injury led to his untimely death. He became the first European to travel through northern Ethiopia. Confronted in North Africa by an employer who told him his adolescent prose was not only alive in Europe but launching a career of its own, is quoted as one histrionic outburst. His former employer Alfred Barley wrote Rimbaud would never allow me to mention his former literary works. Sometimes I asked him why he didn't take it up again. All I ever got were the usual replies: Absurd, ridiculous, disgusting, etc. A Season in Hell Arthur Rimbaud, 2011. Illuminations Arthur Rimbaud, 2015-04-15. The definitive translation of the work of one of the brightest geniuses of French poetry. The prose poems of the great French Symbolist Arthur Rimbaud (1854-1891) have acquired enormous prestige among readers everywhere and have been a revolutionary influence on poetry in the twentieth century. They are offered here both in their original texts and in superb English translations by Louise Varèse. Mrs Varèse first published her versions of Rimbaud's Illuminations in 1946. Since then she has revised her work and has included two poems which in the interim have been reclassified as part of Illuminations. This edition also contains two other series of prose poems which include two poems only recently discovered in France, together with an introduction in which Miss Varèse discusses the complicated ins and outs of Rimbaud's scholarship and the special qualities of Rimbaud's writing. Rimbaud was indeed the most astonishing of French geniuses. Fired in childhood with an ambition to write, he gave up poetry before he was twenty-one. Yet he had already produced some of the finest examples of French verse. He is best known for A Season in Hell, but his other prose poems are no less remarkable. While he was working on them, he spoke of his interest in hallucinations, des vertiges, des silences, des nuits. These perceptions were caught by the poet in a beam of pellucid and strangely active language which still lights up now. Here now, there, unexplored aspects of experience and thought.
