Gomersall,2013-03-14 In 1981 Robotics Bibliography was published containing over 1 800 references on industrial robot research and development culled from the scientific literature over the previous 12 years It was felt that sensors for use with industrial robots merited a section and accordingly just over 200 papers were included It is a sign of the increased research into sensors in production engineering that this bibliography on both the contact and non contact forms has appeared less than three years after that first comprehensive collection of references appeared In a review in 1975 Professor Warnecke of IPA Stuttgart drew attention to the lack of sensors for touch and vision Since then research workers in various companies universities and national laboratories in the USA the UK Italy Germany and Japan have concentrated on improving sensor capabilities particularly utilising vision artificial intelligence and pattern recognition principles As a result many research projects are on the brink of commercial exploitation and development This bibliography brings together the documentation on that research and development highlighting the advances made in vision systems but not neglecting the development of tactile sensors of various types No bibliography can ever be comprehensive but significant contributions from research workers and production engineers from the major industrialised countries over the last 12 years have been included      Applied Mechanics Reviews ,1985      Index ,1986      Books in Print Supplement ,1984      The FMS Magazine ,1982      The Industrial Robot ,1981      Electrical & Electronics Abstracts ,1994      Computer & Control Abstracts ,1996      Publications of the National Institute of Standards and Technology ... Robot Vision A. Pugh, 2013-06-29 Over the past five years robot vision has emerged as a subject area with its own identity A text based on the proceedings of the Symposium on Computer Vision and Sensor based Robots held at the General Motors Research Laboratories Warren Michigan in 1978 was published by Plenum Press in 1979 This book edited by George G Dodd and Lothar Rosso probably represented the first identifiable book covering some aspects of robot vision The subject of robot vision and sensory controls RoViSeC occupied an entire international conference held in the Hilton Hotel in Stratford England in May 1981 This was followed by a second RoViSeC held in Stuttgart Germany in November 1982 The large attendance at the Stratford conference and the obvious interest in the subject of robot vision at international robot meetings provides the stimulus for this current collection of papers Users and researchers entering the field of robot vision for the first time will encounter a bewildering array of publications on all aspects of computer vision of which robot vision forms a part It is the grey area dividing the different aspects of computer vision which is not easy to identify Even those involved in research sometimes find difficulty in separating the essential differences between vision for automated inspection and vision for robot applications Both of these are to some extent applications of pattern recognition with the underlying philosophy of each defining the techniques used

Machine Vision Jürgen Beyerer, Fernando Puente León, Christian Frese, 2015-10-01 The book offers a thorough introduction to machine vision It is organized in two parts The first part covers the image acquisition which is the crucial component of most automated visual inspection systems All important methods are described in great detail and are presented with a reasoned structure The second part deals with the modeling and processing of image signals and pays particular regard to methods which are relevant for automated visual inspection
