Narrating and Teaching the Nation Denise Bentravato, 2016-02-15 The book investigates the politics of education in pre and post genocide Rwanda examining the actors interests and discourses that have historically influenced educational policy and practice and in particular the production and revision of history curricula and textbooks This study combines a systematic historical and comparative analysis of curricula and textbooks in Rwanda stakeholder interviews classroom observations and a large scale investigation of pupils understandings of the country's history Written at a crucial time of transition in Rwanda it illuminates the role of education as a powerful means of socialisation through which dominant discourses and related belief systems have been transmitted to the younger generations thus moulding the nation It outlines emergent challenges and possibilities urging a move away from the use of history teaching to disseminate a conveniently selective official history towards practices that promote critical thinking and reflect the heterogeneity characteristic of Rwanda's post genocide society

Speaking of Violence Sara B. Cobb, 2013-08 In the context of ongoing or historical violence people tell stories about what happened who did what to whom and why Yet frequently the speaking of violence reproduces the social fractures and delegitimizes again those that struggle against their own marginalization This speaking of violence deepens conflict and all too often perpetuates cycles of violence Alternatively sometimes people do not speak of the violence and it is erased buried with the bodies that bear it witness This reduces the capacity of the public to address issues emerging in the aftermath of violence and repression This book takes the notion of narrative as foundational to conflict analysis and resolution Distinct from conflict theories that rely on accounts of attitudes or perceptions in the heads of individuals this narrative perspective presumes that meaning structured and organized as narrative processes is the location for both analysis of conflict as well as intervention But meaning is political in that not all stories can be told or the way they are told delegitimizes and erases others Thus the critical narrative theory outlined in this book offers a normative approach to narrative assessment and intervention It provides a way of evaluating narrative and designing better formed stories better in that they are generative of sustainable relations creating legitimacy for all parties In so doing they function aesthetically and ethically to support the emergence of new histories and new futures Indeed critical narrative theory offers a new lens for enabling people to speak of violence in ways that undermine the intractability of conflict role of inference in argumentation considering how arguments support standpoints on the basis of different loci The authors propose and illustrate a model for the analysis of the standpoint argument connection called Argumentum Model of Topics AMT A prominent feature of the AMT is that it distinguishes within each and every single argumentation between an inferential procedural component on which the reasoning process is based and a material contextual component which anchors the argument in the interlocutors cultural and factual common ground The AMT explains how these components differ and how they are intertwined within each single argument This model is introduced in Part II of the book following a careful reconstruction of the enormously rich tradition of studies on inference in argumentation from the antiquity to contemporary authors without neglecting medieval and post medieval contributions The AMT is a contemporary model grounded in a dialogue with such tradition whose crucial aspects are illuminated in this book The Handbook of Social and Political Conflict Sergei A.
