New Geography Of Time:

A Geography Of Time Robert N. Levine, 2008-08-01 In this engaging and spirited book eminent social psychologist Robert Levine asks us to explore a dimension of our experience that we take for granted our perception of time When we travel to a different country or even a different city in the United States we assume that a certain amount of cultural adjustment will be required whether it's getting used to new food or negotiating a foreign language adapting to a different standard of living or another currency In fact what contributes most to our sense of disorientation is having to adapt to another culture's sense of time Levine who has devoted his career to studying time and the pace of life takes us on an enchanting tour of time through the ages and around the world As he recounts his unique experiences with humor and deep insight we travel with him to Brazil where to be three hours late is perfectly acceptable and to Japan where he finds a sense of the long term that is unheard of in the West We visit communities in the United States and find that population size affects the pace of life and even the pace of walking We travel back in time to ancient Greece to examine early clocks and sundials then move forward through the centuries to the beginnings of clock time during the Industrial Revolution We learn that there are places in the world today where people still live according to nature time the rhythm of the sun and the seasons and event time the structuring of time around happenings when you want to make a late appointment in Burundi you say I'll see you when the cows come in Levine raises some fascinating questions How do we use our time Are we being ruled by the clock What is this doing to our cities To our relationships To our own bodies and psyches Are there decisions we have made without conscious choice Alternative tempos we might prefer Perhaps Levine argues our goal should be to try to live in a multitemporal society one in which we learn to move back and forth among nature time event time and clock time In other words each of us must chart our own geography of time If we can do that we will have achieved temporal prosperity Geography of Time, Place, Movement and Networks, Volume 4 Stanley D. Brunn, 2024-05-23 This book provides insight into the importance of place and place settings in personal journeys It explores the worlds of time journeys in different contexts daily work community livelihoods rural urban migration disease outbreaks and controls cruise ship tours and isolated frontier settings Besides this the book also addresses the networks connecting rural and urban places transcontinental highways and railroads rural urban migration and other innovative journeys such as gas station road maps and body maps The chapters also discuss how eradicating diseases are time place journeys as is moving from a distant isolated frontier to a metropolis As such this book is a must read for those interested in exploring the intersections in and between the humanities and social policy sciences A New Geography of Time Robert Viscusi, 2004 Translation and Interpretation Raul Calzoni, Francesca Di Blasio, Greta Perletti, 2022-08-08 A volume in honour of Angela Locatelli The book explores the significance of literary translation and interpretation in the widest sense of terms as multiple processes of meaning and cultural transfer by investigating how and why literature can be considered as a repository and a disseminator of knowledge and values Featuring essays by a number of scholars focusing on a wide range of literary and critical texts of different nations and cultures and encompassing the last three centuries this book intends to offer a contribution to the study of translation and interpretation as literary processes of cultural and epistemic dissemination of knowledge from both a theoretical and a practical perspective

School Subjects and Curriculum Change Ivor F. Goodson, 2013-04-03 The process of curriculum development is highly practical as Goodson shows in this enlarged anniversary third edition of his seminal work The position of subjects and their development within the curriculum is illustrated by looking at how school subjects in particular geography and biology gained academic and intellectual respectability within the whole curriculum during the late 1960s and early 1970s He highlights how subjects owe their formation and accreditation to competing status and their power to compete in the provision of worthwhile knowledge and considers subjects as continually changing sub groups of information Such subjects from the framework of the society in which individuals live and over which they have influence This volume questions the basis on which subject disciplines are developed and formulates new possibilities for curriculum development and reform in a post modernist age Cities in a Time of Terror: Space, Territory, and Local Resilience H.V.
