Handbook of Research on Educational Communications and Technology David H. Jonassen, 2004 This edition of this handbook updates and expands its review of the research theory issues and methodology that constitute the field of educational communications and technology Organized into seven sectors it profiles and integrates the following elements of this rapidly changing field

Artificial Intelligence Applications and Innovations Ilias Maglogiannis, Kostas Karpouzis, 2006-08-29 Artificial Intelligence applications build on a rich and proven theoretical background to provide solutions to a wide range of real life problems The ever expanding abundance of information and computing power enables researchers and users to tackle highly interesting issues for the first time such as applications providing personalized access and interactivity to multimodal information based on preferences and semantic concepts or human machine interface systems utilizing information on the affective state of the user The purpose of the 3rd IFIP Conference on Artificial Intelligence Applications and Innovations AIAI is to bring together researchers engineers and practitioners interested in the technical advances and business and industrial applications of intelligent systems AIAI 2006 is focused on providing insights on how AI can be implemented in real world applications

Accelerating Democracy John O. McGinnis, 2013 How to adapt democracy to the accelerating pace of technological change and why it's critical that we do Successful democracies throughout history from ancient Athens to Britain on the cusp of the industrial age have used the technology of their time to gather information for better governance Our challenge is no different today but it is more urgent because the accelerating pace of technological change creates potentially enormous dangers as well as benefits Accelerating Democracy shows how to adapt democracy to new information technologies that can enhance political decision making and enable us to navigate the social rapids ahead John O McGinnis demonstrates how these new technologies combine to address a problem as old as democracy itself how to help citizens better evaluate the consequences of their political choices As society became more complex in the nineteenth century social planning became a top down enterprise delegated to experts and bureaucrats Today technology increasingly permits information to bubble up from below and filter through more dispersed and competitive sources McGinnis explains how to use fast evolving information technologies to more effectively analyze past public policy bring unprecedented intensity of scrutiny to current policy proposals and more accurately predict the results of future policy

But he argues that we can do so only if government keeps pace with technological change For instance it must revive federalism to permit different jurisdictions to test different policies so that their results can be evaluated and it must legalize information markets to permit people to bet on what the consequences of a policy will be even before that policy is implemented Accelerating Democracy reveals how we can achieve a democracy that is informed by expertise and social scientific knowledge while shedding the arrogance and insularity of a technocracy

Telematics and Work J.H. Erik Andriesson, Robert A. Roe, 2013-05-24 This volume is part of a publication series emerging from an international interdisciplinary study group on New Technologies and Work NeTWork NeTWork is sponsored by the Werner Reimers Foundation Bad Homburg Germany and the Maison des Sciences de l'Homme Paris The NeTWork study group has set itself the task of intellectually penetrating various problem domains posed by the introduction and spread of new technologies in work settings This problem focus requires interdisciplinary co operation The usual mode of operating is to identify an important problem within the NeTWork scope to attempt to prestructure it and then to invite original contributions from European researchers or research teams actively involved in relevant analytic or developmental work A specific workshop serves to cross fertilize the different approaches and to help to integrate more fully the individual contributions The concept of telematics refers to the integration of computer telecommunication and information technologies It alludes to the opportunities presented by the technical means to communicate and transfer data over large distances by intelligent equipment Teleshopping teleconferencing teleworking and telebanking are but a few examples of a development which influences both public and private environments Both households and workplaces are likely to be thoroughly changed by telematics This publication emphasises the application of telematics in working environments The central questions of the book are How will the present and future development of telematics effect the nature and organization of work and under which conditions will this development be optimal From the various contributions it is clear that telematics is not a single direct cause or determinant of particular changes in work and organization. The development and application of telematics depend on decision making of actors at a political scene both outside and inside the work organizations. The effects of the use of these applications appear to be co-determined by many other factors. In fact, the technology interacts with political, economic and social factors in a complex process that shapes new organizational forms and work relationships. Informational Technology and Its Impact on American Education, 1982. Assisting Individuals with Down Syndrome to Access Information Technology Frank Buckley, 2000. As the impact of computer and communications technology upon our lives continues to increase, so the ability to control and interact with these technologies becomes more important for everyday living and working. This module provides an overview of issues relating to the use of information technology by people with Down syndrome. It aims to provide a general introduction to these issues for parents, teachers and employers. Accessibility issues are discussed and practical strategies for adapting standard equipment and software are listed. Potential benefits of computer-assisted learning applications are summarised; further detail can be found in DSii 16.09. Finally, some of the resources related to Down syndrome that are available via the Internet are discussed.

Knowledge Management Handbook Jay Liebowitz, 1999-02-25. Many organizations are now realizing that their competitive edge lies mostly in the brainpower, the intellectual capital of their employees and management. To stay ahead of the pack, companies must leverage their knowledge internally and externally. But it is not enough to develop lessons learned databases. Experts now believe the current savior of organizations is knowledge management: the conceptualization, review, consolidation and action phases of creating, securing, combining, coordinating and retrieving knowledge in short, the process of creating value from an organization's intangible assets. Jay Liebowitz, one of the leading knowledge management and expert systems authorities in the world, brings together over thirty articles contributed by the top researchers and practitioners to produce what seems destined to become the key reference for this emerging field. With it, you will find: How to create a knowledge sharing environment; How senior executives can show tangible benefits using methods that value the intellectual capital, especially the human capital within the organization; How knowledge management is not the same as information management; How senior management commitment and involvement are essential to the success of a knowledge management system.

Networks Kurt Geihs, Wolfgang König, Falk von Westarp, 2012-12-06. New information and communication technologies unquestionably brought about enormous changes that resulted in an ever-increasing networked society. Indeed, there is no area in the social and economic world which is unaffected by the recent advances. In response to these changes, scientists from numerous disciplines teamed up in 1997 to lay a foundation for a common theory of networks. The objective was to gain a deeper understanding of the mechanisms behind social, economic, technical and other kinds of networks in order to develop a unified theory of networks. Such a theory would then guide public and private decisions concerning the planning, operations and controlling of all kinds of networks. The contributions in this book represent the first steps toward this ambitious goal Resources in Education ,1997-04 Horizons ,1983 Science, Technology, and Society Sal P.
