The New Encyclopedia of Southern Culture Judith H. Bonner, Estill Curtis Pennington, Charles Reagan Wilson, 2013-01-14 From the Potomac to the Gulf artists were creating in the South even before it was recognized as a region The South has contributed to America's cultural heritage with works as diverse as Benjamin Henry Latrobe's architectural plans for the nation's Capitol the wares of the Newcomb Pottery and Richard Clague's tonalist Louisiana bayou scenes This comprehensive volume shows how through the decades and centuries the art of the South expanded from mimetic portraiture to sophisticated responses to national and international movements The essays treat historic and current trends in the visual arts and architecture major collections and institutions and biographies of artists themselves As leading experts on the region's artists and their work editors Judith H. Bonner and Estill Curtis Pennington frame the volume's contributions with insightful overview essays on the visual arts and architecture in the American South

Fanning the Spark Mary Ward Brown, 2009-03-08 Fanning the Spark is the story of Mary Ward Brown's life as a writer her upbringing in rural Alabama the joys of college marriage and motherhood the sorrows of becoming a widow and a lifelong devotion to writing writers and literature and the company of those who shared those loves nurturing and feeding her interior life in the face of many challenges losses and obstacles both emotional and material

South to A New Place Suzanne W. Jones, Sharon Monteith, 2002-11-01 Taking Albert Murray's South to a Very Old Place as a starting point contributors to this exciting collection continue the work of critically and creatively remapping the South through their freewheeling studies of southern literature and culture Appraising representations of the South within a context that is postmodern diverse widely inclusive and international the essays present multiple ways of imagining the South and examine both new places and old landscapes in an attempt to tie the mythic southern balloon down to earth In his foreword an insightful discussion of numerous Souths and the ways they are perceived Richard Gray explains one of the key goals of the book to open up to scrutiny the literary and cultural practice that has come to be known as regionalism Part I Surveying the

Territory theorizes definitions of place and region and includes an analysis of southern literary regionalism from the 1930s to the present and an exploration of southern popular culture In Mapping the Region essayists examine different representations of rural landscapes and small towns cities and suburbs as well as liminal zones in which new immigrants make their homes Reflecting the contributors transatlantic perspective Making Global Connections challenges notions of southern distinctiveness by reading the region through the comparative frameworks of Southern Italy East Germany Latin America and the United Kingdom and via a range of texts and contexts from early reconciliation romances to Faulkner's fictions about race to the more recent parody of southern mythmaking Alice Randall's The Wind Done Gone Together these essays explore the roles that economic racial and ideological tensions have played in the formation of southern identity through varying representations of locality moving regionalism toward a new place in southern studies

Plantation Airs Brannon Costello, 2007-12-01 In Plantation Airs Brannon Costello argues persuasively for new attention to the often neglected issue of class in southern literary studies Focusing on the relationship between racial paternalism and social class in American novels written after World War II Costello asserts that well into the twentieth century attitudes and behaviors associated with an idealized version of agrarian antebellum aristocracy especially those of racial paternalism were believed to be essential for white southerners The wealthy employed them to validate their identities as aristocrats while less affluent whites used them to separate themselves from white trash in the social hierarchy Even those who were not legitimate heirs of plantation owning families found that putting on airs associated with the legacy of the plantation could align them with the forces of power and privilege and offer them a measure of authority in the public arena that they might otherwise lack Fiction by Zora Neale Hurston Eudora Welty William Faulkner Ernest Gaines Walker Percy and others reveals however that the racial paternalism central to class formation and mobility in the South was unraveling in the years after World War II when the civil rights movement and the South's increasing industrialization dramatically altered southern life Costello demonstrates that these writers were keenly aware of the ways in which the changes sweeping the South complicated the deeply embedded structures that governed the relationship between race and class He further contends that the collapse of racial paternalism as a means of organizing class lies at the heart of their most important works including Hurston's Seraph on the Suwanee and her essay The Pet Negro System Welty's Delta Wedding and The Ponder Heart Faulkner's The Mansion and The Reivers Gaines's Of Love and Dust and his story Bloodline and Percy's The Last Gentleman and Love in the Ruins By examining ways in which these works depict and critique the fall of the plantation ideal and its aftermath Plantation Airs indicates the richness and complexity of the literary responses to this intersection of race and class Understanding how many of the modern South's best writers imagined and engaged the various facets of racial paternalism in their fiction Costello confirms helps readers construct a more comprehensive picture of the complications and contradictions of class in the South
