Growing a Soul for Social Change Tonya Huber-Warring, 2008-04-01 For readers new to the field of multicultural education and human relations education the recency of these publications heralded as seminal may be confusing for certainly the concepts building the field of multicultural education and human relations education have been around much longer True But for the first time we found the conceptual framework guiding principles and critical works across disciplines and fields in Smith's encyclopedic organization Because of the comprehensive nature of Pritchey Smith's knowledge bases they have been employed as the organizing themes for this volume I would clarify that I have not burdened authors to study Smith's analysis and then apply it to their works the categorization is my own And as is true of any topic the interpretation and application may be broadly applicable One of my major goals in founding this series has been to further develop the knowledge bases with voices from those in the trenches literally and figuratively and at the chalkface while proverbial for some parts of the world chalk remains a teaching staple in many regions of the world Throughout this volume authors will explore and research their own discoveries on this journey narratives of crossing cultures and developing communities reconceptualizing democracy and reinterpreting traditions seeking solidarity and sowing the seeds of social justice Through critical reflection in the shade of these giants the reader may discover Ming Fang's bamboo tree

Writing at the Edge Jeff Park,2005 In Writing at the Edge Jeff Park invites the reader to see personal writing as the metaphorical space where individuals negotiate meaning with others and the world Drawing upon writing process theory curriculum theory narrative theory and many years of practice this book explores writing in relation to the self but dares to include the multiplicities and contradictions of social and cultural constructions of gender power and politics Park uses the metaphor of the riparian zone to reconsider the value of writing as a site of negotiation of self culture and society This book is the best of curriculum theory and narrative inquiry as well as a stunning invitation to those working in language arts writing and teacher education to reconsider personal writing as a place of great diversity beauty and paradox

CALL, Culture and the Language Curriculum Licia Calvi,Walter Geerts,2012-12-06 A consensus seems to exist on the following In foreign language acquisition methodology sound methods and efficient tools have been developed until now in order to allow the learner to master and put into practice grammar basic vocabulary and frequent communicative rules Within this area Computer Assisted Language Learning CALL has become an indispensable partner often leading the game Beyond these borders however methodology as a whole becomes more blurred Rules seem to vanish variation and specialisation increase Intuitive and ad hoc approaches seem to take the lead on formally established methods The reasons for this are obvious how to control the enormous ever changing and expanding set of data links and encyclopedic information that we associate with a richly developed human language In front of this overwhelming opponent the search for method often surrenders This is the point where CALL could offer foreign language learning the opportunity to make another jump forward Information technology is capable of handling and streamlining huge and complex amounts of information But this is also the point where language crosses the border of the purely linguistic fact and where language learning has to come to terms with what we would call cultural issues

Queering Elementary Education William J. Letts IV, James T. Sears, 1999-10-27 Queering Elementary Education is not about teaching kids to be gay lesbian bisexual or straight It s not part of a sinister stratagem in the gay agenda Instead these provocative and thoughtful essays advocate the creation of classrooms that challenge categorical thinking promote interpersonal intelligence and foster critical consciousness Queer elementary classrooms are those where parents and educators care enough about their children to trust the human capacity for understanding and their educative abilities to foster insight into the human condition Those who teach queerly refuse to participate in the great sexual sorting machine called schooling where diminutive GI Joes and Barbies become star quarterbacks and prom queens while the Linuses and Tinky Winkies become wallflowers or human doormats Queeering education means bracketing our simplest classroom activities in which we routinely equate sexual identities with sexual acts privilege the heterosexual condition and presume sexual destinies Queer teachers are those who develop curriculum and pedagogy that afford every child dignity rooted in self worth and esteem for others In short queering education happens when we look at schooling upside down and view childhood from the inside out This groundbreaking volume demands we explore taken for granted assumptions about diversity identities childhood and prejudice
