People Care In Institutions A Conceptual Schema And Its Application:

People Care in Institutions Yochanan Wozner, 1990 This analysis of direct care institutions focuses on the organization and culture of the institution rather than its given psychological or educational approach It features practical strategies for the organization of institutional settings and suggests a scheme for quality of life

Innovative Approaches in Working with Children and Youth Yuval Dror, 2021-04-14 Explore the unique social and educational laboratory known as the Israeli kibbutz This valuable book examines state of the art innovations in services for children and youth happening today in the kibbutz in Israel It brings to light the latest developments in integrated services for clients inside and outside the kibbutz society services for detached and troubled individuals and groups from outside the kibbutz and regional services that include kibbutz and non kibbutz children who live at home while attending kibbutz institutions According to editor Yuval Dror Since the mid 1980s the kibbutz movement has experienced a deep social and economic crisis but despite this negative influence on the semi private kibbutz educational system the uniqueness of communal cooperative education has been maintained and has even grown The openness of the kibbutz to its neighbors from non kibbutz settlements in the 1980s and 1990s enabled rural areas to succeed in fruitful cooperation with the kibbutz These experiences are detailed here In Innovative Approaches In Working with Children and Youth New Lessons from the Kibbutz you ll learn about youth aliya groups youth societies the Project for the Education of Israeli Children in the Kibbutz Movement the NA ALEH Program and the Zweig Center for Special Education at Oranim This unique book brings you a comparison of two kibbutz secondary boarding schools with residential facilities in different forms a look at a unique way of absorbing young Russian immigrants in kibbutzim and other residential settings an examination of integration practice in kibbutz day schools a discussion of how Kfar Tikva serves disabled adults and much more Educators and their students youth workers and social workers as well as anyone with an interest in the unique learning opportunities offered by the kibbutz system will find Innovative Approaches In Working with Children and Youth New Lessons from the Kibbutz an invaluable tool

The Anthropology of Child and Youth Care Work Jerome Beker, 2013-10-08 The Anthropology of Child and Youth Care Work presents and illustrates an anthropological model of child and youth care work and explores the associated benefits of such an approach Author Rivka A Eisikovits model enhances workers on the job effectiveness with clients and co workers and improves intra and inter organizational communication with other human service providers This book prepares child and youth care providers educators researchers administrators consultants supervisors and organizers to become change sensitive process oriented observers analysts and co designers of the systems within which they function and those with which they interact such as families communities and referral agencies The model presented in The Anthropology of Child and Youth Care Work offers readers an organic continuum between everyday work experience and conceptual practice organizing such haphazard events into a systemized body of knowledge Although providing specific skills it is more than a technology it is a humanistic worldview from which a humanistic practice philosophy can be derived Specific points of this philosophy that child and youth care professionals learn about include the cultural learning theory ethnographic inquiry and description staff client relations the sick role trap microcultural events in residential settings the relationship between treatment and education subsystems a heuristic approach to service delivery family cultural ethnography for cultural sensitization Eisikovits anthropologic perspective broadens the horizons of child and youth care work and equips practitioners to transcend narrowly drawn organizational boundaries By presenting caregivers as cultural translators between their clients and various decision making forums The Anthropology of Child and Youth Care Work prepares them to face the challenges of a dynamic emergent profession and helps them perform successfully in a rapidly changing social context that requires constant assessment of needs and evaluation of performance

Negotiating Positive Identity in a Group Care Community Zvi Levy, 1993 In this readable book Zvi Levy Hadassim's Director provides a careful account of how over time he and others have shaped a community to foster health identity and competence in distressed young people Canadian WIZO Women's International Zionist Organization Hadassim is a thriving youth village in Israel that is home for 500 young people and a day educational program for an additional 1 000 Negotiating Positive Identity in a Residential Group Care Community illustrates the organizational expression of a developmental idea in this case Erik Erikson's identity development theory to show how an environment can be created to cope with disrupted development processes among children and adolescents The book describes an ongoing experiment that started fifteen years ago and has since been recognized as an outstanding success The basic information and ideas expressed by Levy can be used to improve the effectiveness of any framework through which adolescents pass during the stages of development including schools community centers and normal families Some of the main topics discussed in this volume are principles for running a multicultural facility organization of the daily life of a large residential setting major parameters in a residential setting as derived from the theories of Erik Erikson on adolescence as a developmental stage comprehensive care for youth in transition and adolescents suffering from aggravated identity crises All child and youth care workers and program administrators can learn much from Levy's account of Hadassim Negotiating Positive Identity in a Residential Group Care Community will be disturbing to many who adhere to the current tenets of good management and child care practice readers need to be prepared to have many assumptions and beliefs challenged The book emphasizes the distress of immigrant and troubled urban youth as an aggravated identity crisis the cause of which needs to be treated before the symptom This volume is of interest to theoreticians practitioners and policymakers in the fields of education child and youth care and developmental psychology as well as scholars in Erikson's theories It is also useful in courses which study education in Israel or that seek solutions to problems such as homeless youth in the Third World Negotiating Positive Identity in a Residential Group Care Community stresses that The answer to deprivation is not the provision of efficient services but an environment and an approach that encourages adolescents to see themselves as active participants and not as patients or passive inmates Residential settings for children and adolescents can successfully handle large numbers and in fact larger numbers can offer some definite advantages The best way to help children develop into autonomous adults is to give them responsibility for their own choices within the framework of a goal oriented community

Information Systems in Child, Youth, and Family Agencies Jerome Beker,Anthony J Grasso Dsw,Irwin Epstein,Boysville Of Michigan,1993-10-27 Here is a detailed look at the design development and successful implementation of a utilization focused computerized information system in an agency serving children youths and families This important book describes Boysville of Michigan s effort to create a model of information utilization designed specifically for social service settings and details their unique attempt to integrate information technology and social work practice at every organizational level Information Systems in Child Youth and Family Agencies covers Boysville s five year endeavor to design implement and evaluate BOMIS Boysville Management Information System their computerized management information program evaluation and clinical decision making system The book shows how practice based research can contribute to broader practice relevant knowledge for the field in general as well as for the sponsoring agency It contains collaborative contributions by practitioners managers administrators and researchers who were directly involved in the development and utilization of the information system Many of the problems Boysville solved while implementing BOMIS are also likely to face information specialists and social work administrators in other agencies who are trying to integrate information technology with the practice needs of direct service workers This in depth case study helps them discover some of the ins and outs of setting up their own information system Information Systems in Child Youth and Family Agencies is divided into three sections The first describes the underlying theoretical assumptions of the Boysville system and the organizational structures and processes that translate these assumptions into practice This section is written largely by Boysville s research staff The next set of chapters written primarily by Boysville s practice and administrative staff illustrates the programmatic uses of information provided by BOMIS The last section illustrates how BOMIS data can serve internal organizational purposes as well as reflect on broader issues in the field and is written by members of Boysville s National Research Advisory Committee Unique in its collaborative authorship by practitioners and researchers and its dual focus for agency decision making and for knowledge development this book is especially helpful for managers and administrators interested in promoting computer based practice research in their agencies for research consultants and for applied researchers in the human services
