Encyclopedia of Perception E. Bruce Goldstein, 2010 Because of the ease with which we perceive many people see perception as something that just happens However even seemingly simple perceptual experiences involve complex underlying mechanisms which are often hidden from our conscious experience These mechanisms are being investigated by researchers and theorists in fields such as psychology cognitive science neuroscience computer science and philosophy A few examples of the questions posed by these investigations are What do infants perceive How does perception develop What do perceptual disorders reveal about normal functioning How can information from one sense such as hearing be affected by information from another sense such as vision How is the information from all of our senses combined to result in our perception of a coherent environment What are some practical outcomes of basic research in perception These are just a few of the questions this encyclopedia will consider as it presents a comprehensive overview of the field of perception for students researchers and professionals in psychology the cognitive sciences neuroscience and related medical disciplines such as neurology and ophthalmology

The Ecological Approach To Visual Perception James J. Gibson, 2013-05-13 This is a book about how we see the environment around us its surfaces their layout and their colors and textures where we are in the environment whether or not we are moving and if we are where we are going what things are good for how to do things to thread a needle or drive an automobile or why things look as they do The basic assumption is that vision depends on the eye which is connected to the brain The author suggests that natural vision depends on the eyes in the head on a body supported by the ground the brain being only the central organ of a complete visual system When no constraints are put on the visual system people look around walk up to something interesting and move around it so as to see it from all sides and go from one vista to another That is natural vision and what this book is about

The Evolution of Perception and the Cosmology of Substance: A Simpler Theory of Everything Christopher Ott, 2004-06-24 Long ago before he had the complicated metaphysical theories that he has today man had his experience to explain Over time he invented theoretical entities to explain his experience He invented gods the logos forms matter monads noumenon minds spirit the ether spacetime superstrings dimensions etc Gradually these invented things became the things which required explaining Great arguments were generated to explain them to prove the existence of the entities he had invented to explain experience Gradually man began to question experience itself since it no longer seemed compatible with his theories Experience that event which had once been beyond dispute and the starting point of man's inquiry was now the theoretical entity and his invented entities such as matter and energy for which he had no direct evidence were reality. The world was finally totally upside down. Chris Ott considers our current philosophical problems to be the tragic result of psychological fallacies as old as Plato. He offers a new explanation for the universe that relies simply on an evolution of perception. His theory succeeds at accounting for the physical as well as the psychological including mathematics, natural law, concrete objects, language, thought, and culture. A spellbinding journey to the roots of our assumptions.

Cognition and the Symbolic Processes

Robert R. Hoffman, David S. Palermo, 2014-01-14. This volume is a festschrift dedicated to James J. Jenkins, a pioneer in many areas of experimental psychology. It has three major goals: to provide a forum for debate on current theoretical issues in cognitive psychology; to capture the state of the art in reviews of research methods and results; and to generate ideas for new research directions and methodologies. Contributors including Jenkins, former students, and present colleagues ponder fundamental questions such as: How do people learn to read? What happens during the processes of speech perception? How do people acquire problem-solving skills? How do cognitive and motor skills develop and integrate with one another? Many chapters focus specifically on ecological and applied cognitive psychology. Specific topics covered include visual and speech perception, language, memory, motivation, child development, problem solving, and pedagogy.

Visual Perception from a Computer

Graphics Perspective. William Thompson, Roland Fleming, Sarah Creem-Regehr, Jeanine Kelly Stefanucci, 2011-06-02. This book provides an introduction to human visual perception suitable for readers studying or working in the fields of computer graphics and visualization, cognitive science, and visual neuroscience. It focuses on how computer graphics images are generated rather than solely on the organization of the visual system itself; therefore, the text provides a more direct tie between image generation and the resulting perceptual phenomena. It covers such topics as the perception of material properties, illumination, the perception of pictorial space, image statistics, perception and action, and spatial cognition.

Donald Davidson on Action, Mind and Value. Syraya Chin-Mu Yang, Robert H. Myers, 2020-09-28. This book brings together a wide range of innovative reflections on the pivotal role that Davidson's concept of agency plays in his later philosophy and its impact on his epistemology, his philosophy of language and mind, and his philosophy of values. The authors critically assess central elements of Davidson's program and offer reappraisals of his seminal contributions to and his continuing influence on the development of contemporary philosophy. By focusing on agency, the book reveals Davidson's views to have been more dynamic and less reductive than previously acknowledged, pointing toward important new possibilities not only in the theory of knowledge but also in the philosophy of mind. It is a valuable resource both for experts on Davidson's philosophy and for those interested in central topics in the theory of action, the philosophy of mind, and language, epistemology, moral philosophy.

and the philosophy of values It is also of interest to researchers in adjoining disciplines such as cognitive science linguistics and psychology
