Re Evaluating Residential Care:

Re-evaluating Residential Care Sheila M. Peace, Leonie A. Kellaher, Dianne M. Willcocks, 1997 The authors of this timely book set out to answer this pressing question and offer an explanation as to what makes older people give up their homes Residential care homes provide accommodation for over 300 000 older people in the UK the majority of whom are in their mid eighties More than a quarter of the population over eighty five live in institutional settings most of them in residential care homes

Equity and Efficiency Policy in Community Care Bleddyn Davies, José Fernández, 2018-02-06 This title was first published in 2000 Equity and Efficiency Policy provides a completely new perspective on post reform community care analyzes its fairness effectiveness and efficiency in a new way and uses its powerful new techniques applied to a major national collection of evidence to suggest how to develop the Modernization Agenda It describes for the first time how differences in the levels of each of the main services alone and in combination affect a wide range of user and carer benefits uses this knowledge to analyze in a new way and make policy proposals about some of the pressing policy issues of the government s Modernization Agenda

Working with Vulnerable Adults Bridget Penhale, Jonathan Parker, 2007-11-22 Working with Vulnerable Adults provides an understanding of current practice in social and health care examining abuse of vulnerable adults and the ways in which social policy welfare services and practitioners may help It is essential reading for students and practitioners interested in finding out more about this important field

Handbook of the Clinical Psychology of Ageing Robert T. Woods, Linda Clare, 2015-04-13 The first authoritative reference on clinical psychology and aging the Handbook of the Clinical Psychology of Ageing was universally regarded as a landmark publication when it was first published in 1996 Fully revised and updated the Second Edition retains the breadth of coverage of the original providing a complete and balanced picture of all areas of clinical research and practice with older people Contributions from the UK North America Scandinavia and Australia provide a broad overview of the psychology of aging psychological problems including depression anxiety psychosis and dementia the current social service context and assessment and intervention techniques

Inclusive housing in an ageing society Peace, Sheila, Holland, Caroline, 2001-10-24 The housing problems of older people in our society are highly topical because of the growing number of retired people in the population and especially the yet to come increasing number of very old people Government policies on the care of older people have been forthcoming from Whitehall but the issue of housing is just beginning to be seriously addressed This book represents a first attempt at bringing together people from the worlds of architecture social science and housing studies to look at the future of living environments for an ageing society Projecting thinking into the future it asks critical questions and attempts to provide some of the answers It uniquely moves beyond the issues of accommodation and care to look at the wider picture of how housing can reflect the social inclusion of people as they age Inclusive housing in an ageing society will appeal to a wide audience housing health and social care workers including housing officers architects planners and designers community regeneration workers care managers social workers and social care assistants registered managers and housing providers health improvement staff and of course current and future generations of older people Medical Identities Kent Maynard, 2007 Illness and misfortune more broadly are ubiquitous thus healing roles or professions are also universal Ironically however little attention has been paid to those who heal or promote wellbeing These come in many different guises in some societies healing is highly professional and specialized in some cases it is more preventative in others more interventionist Based on rich and wide ranging ethnographic data and especially written for this volume these essays look at how a great variety of health providers are perceived from traditional healers to physicians from diviners to nursing home providers Conversely the authors also ask how healers or those concerned with wider matters of well being view themselves and to what degree social attitudes differ in regard to who these people are as well as their power prestige and activities As these essays demonstrate class gender sexuality ethnicity or state policy may all play formative roles in shaping the definition of health and wellbeing how they are delivered and the character and prestige of those who provide for our health and welfare in society Foundations of Health and Social Care Robert Adams, 2007-07-20 Written specifically for students and practitioners in health and social care taking foundation degrees or further professional qualifications this textbook offers a wealth of material on contexts knowledge bases skills and practices as well as dealing with work carried out by those involved in treatment therapy advocacy and management Written in very accessible style this very comprehensive book is set to become a core text for all Foundation Degree students within the health and social care field and a very valuable resource for tutors and practitioners in the field Handbook of Home Health Care Administration Marilyn D. Dementia across cultural borders Mahin Kiwi, 2018-11-20 Introduction Today's multicultural society has resulted in major changes with healthcare undergoing significant modifications Healthcare workers and patients are increasingly confronted with cultural backgrounds other than their own The world's population is ageing and the number of people with dementia is growing resulting in a growing number of older people with a foreign background whose care needs have increased at different rates Migration does not only mean moving from one place to another it also involves the transition of an individual's lifestyle life views social and economic adjustments that may lead to certain changes These transitions from the old to the new way of life and from a life without dementia to a life with dementia involve making sense of life's changes Aim The aim of study I was to explore the experiences and perceptions of dementia among Iranian staff working in a culturally profiled nursing home CPNH The aim of studies II and III was to explore relatives' decisions to end caregiving at home and Iranian families' and relatives' attitudes towards CPNHs in Sweden The aim of study IV was to explore how the residents with dementia at the CPNH expressed the feeling of home Method This thesis is based on more than one year's fieldwork The empirical material is based on interviews and observations Three groups of participants were interviewed and observed 10 people with dementia IV 20 family caregivers and relatives II and III respectively and 34 staff members I The interviews were conducted in Persian Farsi Azerbaijani English and Swedish The choice of language was always up to the participants All the interviews were audio recorded transcribed verbatim in the respective languages and then translated later into Swedish The analysis of the material was based on content analysis blended with ethnography Results Study I shows that people from different culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds could have different perceptions of what dementia entails A lack of knowledge concerning dementia affects how staff approach these people Study II shows that the CPNH is crucial when deciding to cease caregiving at home It is important to ensure that relatives with dementia are cared for by someone who speaks the same mother tongue The results indicate that positive feelings of relief or comfort are dominant responses among the participants some of whom even feel pride in the high standard of care provided by the home In Study III most participants based their views on a comparison between the CPNH and Iranian nursing homes after the Islamic Revolution Negative views of the nursing home were evaluated alongside what the respondents considered to be typically Iranian In Study IV the results show that people with dementia's personal experiences of home played a great role and although none of the participants felt at home all of them stated that the CPNH was a place to live in Conclusion Perceptions of dementia can be based on cultural and traditional understanding although this can shift through transition and knowledge accumulation A lack of knowledge concerning dementia and residents sociocultural background generational differences and incoherence aligned with staff members different sociocultural backgrounds created many challenges The staff wanted to learn more about dementia to be able to manage daily communication with the residents On another point the staff admitted that only being able to speak a person's native language was not enough to claim that they were actually communicating Family caregivers decisions to end caregiving at home involve mutuality capability and management but decision making sometimes has nothing to do with violating a person's autonomy and is more about protecting the person The family caregivers do care for frail elderly family members What has changed due to a transition is the structure and construction of family caregiving The consequences of communication difficulties between staff and the residents have led to a small degree of social involvement which in turn affects residents daily social state Overall many family members stated that the CPNH resembled Iran too much which disturbed them The residents thought of home as a geographical location but also connected it with both positive and negative feelings Furthermore the CPNH reminded some of the residents of the nicer side of life back home in Iran while for others it brought back sad experiences and memories from the past Nevertheless the nursing home due to memories and experiences of life in Iran home was a place to be and to live Changing Britain Susan McRae, 1999 Major changes have happened in households and people's lives in most countries in the developed world Marriage rates have fallen divorce has risen women are having fewer children and later in life and there has been a rise in childbearing outside marriage One in four families is headed by a lone parent We are all getting older These changes have significance that goes beyond the individual families with implications for housing demand social security benefits labour force participation health and social services Changing Britain provides a comprehensive portrait of British families and households at the end of the 20th Century The book examines more generally the nature of economic and labour market change Britain's place in Europe and changing attitudes towards family life Specifically the book also deals with issues such as older people's lives non heterosexual families one person households young mothers and single parents and divorce

Social Work Practice with Older People Rory Lynch,2013-11-13 Older people are the biggest service user group for social workers and an increasing proportion of the population In this refreshingly positive and practical textbook Rory Lynch draws on years of practice and teaching experience to show how to achieve best social work practice with older adults He takes a person centred approach which fosters respect by valuing the fact that elderly people have more lived experience than others Exploring the key theoretical approaches and methods of intervention this book helps social workers to identify understand and facilitate their service users wishes for well being and a fulfilling older age Chapters are practice driven containing case studies drawn from a range of care settings reflective questions and exercises Mapping directly onto the key modules on the social work degree this is essential reading for all student social workers especially as they prepare to go on their practice placement It is also valuable reading for qualified social workers Rory Lynch is Lecturer in Social Work at Robert Gordon University

Into the House of Old Megan J. Davies,2004-10 Davies study of institutional life is multi textured informed by social and architectural theory while telling us much about daily life in these facilities We learn about angry rebellion and harsh discipline fun and festivals death and compassion And we see how the twentieth century witnessed the gradual withdrawal of these institutions from the life of the community further enhancing the marginal place of the old age home in our society Chronicling the evolution of professional ideas about residential care facilities and an innovative program to move elderly patients out of acute care hospital beds Into the House of Old provides a context for understanding this problematic institution as both an offspring of the poor law and a product of the post Second World War expansion of state medical services

Re Evaluating Residential Care Introduction

In today's digital age, the availability of Re Evaluating Residential Care books and manuals for download has revolutionized the way we access information. Gone are the days of physically flipping through pages and carrying heavy textbooks or manuals. With just a few clicks, we can now access a wealth of knowledge from the comfort of our own homes or on the go. This article will explore the advantages of Re Evaluating Residential Care books and manuals for download, along with some popular platforms that offer these resources. One of the significant advantages of Re Evaluating Residential Care books and manuals for download is the cost-saving aspect. Traditional books and manuals can be costly, especially if you need to purchase several of them for educational or professional purposes. By accessing Re Evaluating Residential Care versions, you eliminate the need to spend money on physical copies. This not only saves you money but also reduces the environmental impact associated with book production and transportation. Furthermore, Re Evaluating Residential Care books and manuals for download are incredibly convenient. With just a computer or smartphone and an internet connection, you can access a vast library of resources on any subject imaginable. Whether you're a student looking for textbooks, a professional seeking industry-specific manuals, or someone interested in self-improvement, these digital resources provide an efficient and accessible means of acquiring knowledge. Moreover, PDF books and manuals offer a range of benefits compared to other digital formats. PDF files are designed to retain their formatting regardless of the device used to open them. This ensures that the content appears exactly as intended by the author, with no loss of formatting or missing graphics. Additionally, PDF files can be easily annotated, bookmarked, and searched for specific terms, making them highly practical for studying or referencing. When it comes to accessing Re Evaluating Residential Care books and manuals, several platforms offer an extensive collection of resources. One such platform is Project Gutenberg, a nonprofit organization that provides over 60,000 free eBooks. These books are primarily in the public domain, meaning they can be freely distributed and downloaded. Project Gutenberg offers a wide range of classic literature, making it an excellent resource for literature enthusiasts. Another popular platform for Re Evaluating Residential Care books and manuals is Open Library. Open Library is an initiative of the Internet Archive, a non-profit organization dedicated to digitizing cultural artifacts and making them accessible to the public. Open Library hosts millions of books, including both public domain works and contemporary titles. It also allows users to borrow digital copies of certain books for a limited period, similar to a library lending system. Additionally, many universities and educational institutions have their own digital libraries that provide free access to PDF books and manuals. These libraries often offer academic texts, research papers, and technical manuals, making them invaluable resources for students and researchers. Some notable examples include MIT OpenCourseWare, which offers free access to course materials from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and the Digital Public Library of America, which provides a vast collection of digitized books and historical documents. In conclusion, Re Evaluating Residential Care books and manuals for download have transformed the way we access information. They provide a cost-effective and convenient means of acquiring knowledge, offering the ability to access a vast library of resources at our fingertips. With platforms like Project Gutenberg, Open Library, and various digital libraries offered by educational institutions, we have access to an ever-expanding collection of books and manuals. Whether for educational, professional, or personal purposes, these digital resources serve as valuable tools for continuous learning and self-improvement. So why not take advantage of the vast world of Re Evaluating Residential Care books and manuals for download and embark on your journey of knowledge?
