the newly emerging neuropsychological attributes of nonconscious processes As a result assumptions and lack of clarity overtake information that can become central in our clinical work This revolutionary book presents a new model of the unconscious one that is continuing to emerge from the integration of neuropsychological research with clinical experience Drawing from clinical observations of specific therapeutic cases affect theory research into cognitive neuroscience and neuropsychological findings the book presents an expanded picture of nonconscious processes The model moves from a focus on dissociated affects behaviors memories and the fantasies that are unconsciously created to viewing unconscious as giving expression to whole patterns of feeling thinking and behaving patterns that are so integrated and entrenched as to make them our personality traits Topics covered include the centrality of subcortical regions automaticity repetition and biased memory systems role of the amygdala and its sensitivity to fears in shaping and coloring unconscious self systems self narratives therapeutic enactments therapeutic resistance defensive systems and narcissism therapeutic approaches designed to utilize some of the new understandings regarding unconscious processes and their interaction with higher level conscious ones embedded in the prefrontal cortex
