Kajder, 2006 The reading that we value in school is becoming further and further distanced from the literacy students experience in their outside lives Inside the classroom we ask our students to immerse themselves in print texts and write purposefully Once out the door they are text messaging blogging engaging in online multi player games and expertly integrating words images and music to create original texts Can we import these textual spaces and literacies into English class to help re connect students who don t see themselves as readers and writers English educator Sara Kajder s answer is an emphatic yes and in Bringing the Outside In she demonstrates myriad ways to employ students outside talents in the classroom Drawing on multiple examples of student work she shows how she adapts the curriculum to incorporate an expanded definition of literacy and literacy tools Sara offers teachers guidance on how to extend their repertoire of teaching strategies and help kids connect their natural curiosity and skills as readers and writers of both print and electronic texts while keeping reading and writing at the center of the curriculum Keying in on the visual aspects of literacy and building upon students growing interest in using words and images from their lives to read and write for authentic reasons and authentic audiences integrating such strategies as digital storytelling visual think alouds visual literature circles and others into English class Sara and her kids redefine what it means to be literate in today s world By adding visual components to class activities and projects integrating tools ranging from pencils and paper to weblogs and wikis even reluctant students can become engaged and see themselves as readers and writers for the first time From Reading-Writing Research to Practice Sophie Briquet-Duhazé, Catherine Turcotte, 2019-04-30 Teachers regularly seek to update their practice with newly developed tools from the realm of research with the aim of applying them directly in the classroom particularly for teaching reading and writing Thus teachers continuing education is dependent on the effective dissemination and appropriation of research results This book explores this problem from multiple angles presenting research projects from France and Quebec Canada Using a variety of methods including creating teaching materials and engaging classroom teachers in the research process the authors demonstrate the importance of ownership and dissemination of research results in schools Although this necessity sometimes complicates the work of researchers it is vital to develop and maintain the relationship between reading writing research and its practical applications Close-range Photogrammetric Measurement of Static Deflections for an Aeroelastic Supercritical Wing Thomas A.
