

A black and white photograph of a spider web on a branch. The web is a complex, tangled structure of fine threads, with a prominent spiral in the center. It is attached to a dark, textured branch that runs diagonally across the frame. The background is dark and out of focus, showing other branches and foliage. The lighting highlights the intricate details of the web's structure.

O what a tangled web we weave,
When first we practise
to deceive.

—Sir Walter Scott, 1808
