Post-Structuralism and the Question of History Derek Attridge, Geoff Bennington, Robert Young, 1987 Recent developments in literary theory such as structuralism and deconstruction have come under attack for neglecting history while historically based approaches have been criticized for failing to take account of the problems inherent in their methodological foundations This collection of essays is unique in that it focuses on the relation between post structuralism and historical especially Marxist literary theory and criticism The volume includes a deconstructive reading of Marx essays that relate history to the philosophical and institutional context and a number of studies of particular texts literary and non literary which pose the question of history and literary theory with particular force

Cultural History After Foucault John Neubauer, 2018-01-18 Both as historian and maker of culture Foucault infused numerous disciplines of study with a new conceptual vocabulary and an agenda for future research His ideas have called central assumptions in Western culture into question and altered the ways in which scholars and social scientists approach such issues as discourse theory theory of knowledge Eros technologies of the Self and Other punishment and prisons and asylums and madness The contributors to this volume indicate Foucault's achievements and the suggestive power of his work as well as his methodological weaknesses historical inaccuracies and ambiguities Above all they attempt to show how one can use Foucault to go beyond him in opening new approaches to cultural history Though comprehensiveness was not attempted their essays broach the major controversial aspects of Foucauldian cultural history the position of the subject the fusion of power and knowledge sexuality the historical structures and changes and they explicitly analyze them with respect to antiquity the Renaissance and the nineteenth century In this collection Neubauer presents analyses by historians literary scholars and philosophers of the entire transdisciplinary range of Foucault's oeuvre emphasizing the rich suggestiveness of its agenda The breadth of the undertaking makes it suitable for seminars and graduate courses in numerous departments

History in Transit Dominick LaCapra, 2018-08-06 History in Transit comprises Dominick LaCapra's explorations of relationships he believes have been insufficiently theorized between experience and identity between history and various theories of subjectivity between extreme events and their representation between institutional structures and the kinds of knowledge produced within them Taken together these discussions form a dialogical encounter positing the links among epistemological questions historicist ones and issues pertaining to disciplinary and institutional politics Reacting against the antitheoretical bias of some prominent historians LaCapra presents an alternative model of historiographical practice one in which emphases on plurality and hybridity are combined with the concept of historical experience For LaCapra experience emerges as a category both theoretically determined and anchored in the facticity of the everyday LaCapra tests the assumptions and implications of the way one approaches the past by looking to psychoanalysis to render more self aware the relationship between the historian and his or her material He offers criticisms of assumptions held by practicing historians and theorists placing the study of history at the center of a larger argument about the role of the contemporary university Contesting both corporatization and claims that the university is in ruins LaCapra writes It is paradoxical that the demand to make the university conform to an ever increasing extent to a market or business model seems oblivious to the fact that the American university has probably been the most successful of its type in the world that students from other countries disproportionately desire to study in it
