Olver, 2002-11-30 This is an original contribution to the much debated area of the value that we should place on human life With the euthanasia issue highlighted in the public arena this book argues for a non absolutist highest value on life ethic and how that fits with society's current emphasis on individual autonomy By the use of everyday examples the impact of placing a high value on life is explored It will be useful for students of ethics nursing and medicine and those engaged in the public debate on euthanasia

Lethal Force, the Right to Life and the ECHR Stephen Skinner,2019-08-22 In its case law on the use of lethal and potentially lethal force the European Court of Human Rights declares a fundamental connection between the right to life in Article 2 of the European Convention on Human Rights and democratic society This book discusses how that connection can be understood by using narrative theory to explore Article 2 law s specificities and its deeper historical social and political significance Focusing on the domestic policing and law enforcement context the book draws on an extensive analysis of case law from 1995 to 2017 It shows how the connection with democratic society in Article 2 s substantive and procedural dimensions underlines the right to life s problematic duality as an expression of a basic value demanding a high level of protection and a contextually limited provision allowing states leeway in the use of force Emphasising the need to identify clear standards in the interpretation and application of the right to life the book argues that Article 2 law s narrative dimensions bring to light its core purposes and values These are to extract meaning from pain and death ground democratic society s foundational distinction between acceptable force and unacceptable violence and indicate democratic society s essential attributes as a restrained responsible and reflective system

On Human Rights James Griffin,2008-02-14 What is a human right How can we tell whether a proposed human right really is one How do we establish the content of particular human rights and how do we resolve conflicts between them These are pressing questions for philosophers political theorists jurisprudents international lawyers and activists James Griffin offers answers in his compelling new investigation of the foundations of human rights First On Human Rights traces the idea of a natural right from its origin in the late Middle Ages when the rights were seen as deriving from natural laws through the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries when the original theological background was progressively dropped and natural law emptied of most of its original meaning By the end of the Enlightenment the term human rights droits de l homme appeared marking the purge of the theological background But the Enlightenment in putting nothing in its place left us with an unsatisfactory incomplete idea of a human right Griffin shows how the language of human rights has become debased There are scarcely any accepted criteria either in the academic or the public sphere for correct use of the term He takes on the task of showing the way towards a determinate concept of human rights based on their relation to the human status that we all share He works from certain paradigm cases such as freedom of expression and freedom of worship to more disputed cases such as welfare rights for instance the idea of a human right to health His goal is a substantive account of human rights an account with enough content to tell us whether proposed rights really are rights Griffin emphasizes the practical as well as theoretical urgency of this goal as the United Nations recognized in 1948 with its Universal Declaration the idea of human rights has considerable power to improve the lot of humanity around the world We can't do without the idea of human rights and we need to get clear about it It is our job now the job of this book to influence and develop the unsettled discourse of human rights so as to complete the incomplete idea

Life, Death, and Meaning David Benatar, 2016-03-28 Do our lives have meaning Should we create more people Is death bad Should we commit suicide Would it be better to be immortal Should we be optimistic or pessimistic Since Life Death and Meaning Key Philosophical Readings on the Big Questions first appeared David Benatar's distinctive anthology designed to introduce students to the key existential questions of philosophy has won a devoted following among users in a variety of upper level and even introductory courses While many philosophers in the continental tradition those known as existentialists have engaged these issues at length and often with great popular appeal English speaking philosophers have had relatively little to say on these important questions Yet the methodology they bring to philosophical questions can and occasionally has been applied usefully to existential questions This volume draws together a representative sample of primarily English speaking philosophers reflections on life's big questions divided into six sections covering 1 the meaning of life 2 creating people 3 death 4 suicide 5 immortality and 6 optimism and pessimism These key readings are supplemented with helpful introductions study questions and suggestions for further reading making the material accessible and interesting for students In short the book provides a singular introduction to the way that philosophy has dealt with the big questions of life that we are all tempted to ask

A Philosophical Introduction to Human Rights Thomas Mertens, 2020-09-24 While almost everyone has heard of human rights few will have reflected in depth on what human rights are where they originate from and what they mean A Philosophical Introduction to Human Rights accessibly written without being superficial addresses these questions and provides a multifaceted introduction to legal philosophy The point of departure is the famous 1948 Universal Declaration of Human Rights which provides a frame for engagement with western legal philosophy Thomas Mertens sketches the philosophical and historical background of the Declaration discusses the ten most important human rights with the help of key philosophers and ends by reflecting on the relationship between rights and duties The basso continuo of the book is a particular world view derived from Immanuel Kant Unsocial sociability is what characterises humans i e the tension between man s individual and social nature Some human rights emphasize the first others the second aspect The tension between these two aspects plays a fundamental role in how human rights are interpreted and applied

The Metaphysics of Death
John Martin Fischer, 1993 This collection of seventeen essays deals with the metaphysical as opposed to the moral issues pertaining to death For example the authors investigate among other things the issue of what makes death a bad thing for an individual if indeed death is a bad thing This issue is more basic and abstract than such moral questions as the particular conditions under which euthanasia is justified if it is ever justified Though there are important connections between the more abstract questions addressed in this book and many contemporary moral issues such as euthanasia suicide and abortion the primary focus of this book is on metaphysical issues concerning the nature of death What is the nature of the harm or bad involved in death If it is not pain what is it and how can it be bad Who is the subject of the harm or bad if the person is no longer alive how can he be the subject of the bad An if he is not the subject who is Can one have harm with no subject When does the harm take place Can a harm take place after its subject ceases to exist If death harms a person can the harm take place before the death occurs If death can be a bad thing would immortality be a desirable alternative This family of questions helps to frame the puzzle of why and how death is bad Other subjects addressed include the Epicurean view that death is not a misfortune for the person who dies the nature of misfortune and benefit the meaningfulness and value of life and the distinction between the life of a person and the life of a living creature who is not a person There is an extensive bibliography that includes science fiction treatments of death and immortality

The Death and Life of the Urban Commonwealth Margaret Kohn, 2016-09-21 The city is a paradoxical space in theory belonging to everyone in practice inaccessible to people who cannot afford the high price of urban real estate Within these urban spaces are public and social goods including roads policing transit public education and culture all of which have been created through multiple hands and generations but that are effectively only for the use of those able to acquire private property Why should this be the case As Margaret Kohn argues when people lose access to the urban commons they are dispossessed of something to which they have a rightful claim the right to the city Political theory has much to say about individual rights equality and redistribution but it has largely ignored the city In response Kohn turns to a mostly forgotten political theory called solidarism to interpret the city as a form of common wealth In this view the city is a concentration of value created by past generations and current residents streets squares community centers schools and local churches Although the legal title to these mixed spaces includes a patchwork of corporate private and public ownership if we think of the spaces as the common wealth of many actors the creation of a new framework of value becomes possible Through its novel mix of political and urban theory The Death and Life of the Urban Commonwealth proposes a productive way to rethink struggles over gentrification public housing transit and public space

The Oxford Handbook of Philosophy of Death Ben Bradley,Fred Feldman,Jens Johansson,2015 This Handbook consists of 21 new essays on the nature and value of death the relevance of the metaphysics of time and personal identity for questions about death the desirability of immortality and the wrongness of killing
