Services and Space J. N. Marshall, Peter Anthony Wood, 1995 Services and Economic Development in the Asia-Pacific P.W. Daniels, J.W. Harrington, 2016-04-01 Until the 1990s industrialization was the dominant development paradigm for the Asia Pacific region Since then advanced services finance business or producer services information and creative services have become deeply embedded in the processes of economic growth and change in the region This rapid tertiary expansion is fundamentally restructuring national and regional economies and urban form in line with the introduction of advanced production systems national modernization programmes and the globalization strategies of governments Services are being actively deployed as instruments of metropolitan reconfiguration and land use change This book explores various aspects of the relationship between service industries and economic development in Japan South Korea China Taiwan Singapore India Australia and New Zealand It provides new sector oriented and regional and national perspectives on services and development

Local and Regional Development Andy Pike, Andrés Rodríguez-Pose, John Tomaney, Andrés Rodríguez-Pose, 2006-11-22 Local and regional development is an increasingly global issue For localities and regions the challenge of enhancing prosperity improving wellbeing and increasing living standards has become acute for localities and regions formerly considered discrete parts of the developed and developing worlds Amid concern over the definitions and sustainability of development a spectre has emerged of deepened unevenness and sharpened inequalities in the development prospects for particular social groups and territories Local and Regional Development engages and addresses the key questions what are the principles and values that shape definitions and strategies of local and regional development What are the conceptual and theoretical frameworks capable of understanding and interpreting local and regional development What are the main policy interventions and instruments How do localities and regions attempt to effect development in practice What kinds of local and regional development should we be pursuing This book addresses the fundamental issues of what kind of local and regional development and for whom frameworks of understanding and instruments and policies It outlines what a holistic progressive and sustainable local and regional development might constitute before reflecting on its limits and political renewal With the growing international importance of local and regional development this book is an essential student purchase illustrated throughout with maps figures and case studies from Asia Europe and Central and North America

Consumer Services and Economic Development Colin C. Williams, 1997 Consumer Services and Economic Development evaluates the role of consumer services as motors for local economic development in contemporary advanced economies The contributions that specific consumer service industries are making to local economic development are analysed Tourism sports universities retailing and the cultural industries are each examined in turn Following this the roles that the consumer services sector are playing in economic regeneration are investigated in a number of different contexts a global city several contrasting urban areas and a rural locality In each case whether consumer services have taken a lead or supportive role in local economic development is surveyed and their effectiveness in promoting economic regeneration is evaluated This book dispels the common myth that consumer services are residual activities dependent upon other economic sectors for their vitality and viability Providing a comprehensive overview and evaluation of the contributions of the consumer services sector to economic development this book reveals the need for a fundamental reconceptualization of both the function of services in particular and economic development theory and practice more generally

Urban Growth and Innovation Frank G. van Oort, 2017-11-22 Knowledge externalities i.e. intellectual gains made by exchange of information for which no direct compensation is given to the producer of the knowledge result in higher economic growth rates across urban areas as well as higher degrees of innovation intensity in those locations where economic activity is dense By combining theories and methodologies on localised growth and innovation density from the fields of geography and economics he puts forward an innovative spatial econometric model which contributes to a clearer understanding of actual processes of growth and innovation and their linkages to industry and spatially determined agglomeration factors In doing so the book acknowledges the increasing importance of geographical composition and distance for the transmission of knowledge and skills in a society in which information becomes easier to access

Understanding Contemporary Ireland Brendan Bartley, Rob Kitchin, 2006-12-20 This is an account of Ireland in the twenty first century and the remarkable economic and social transformations that have occurred since the late 1980s The Celtic Tiger phenomenon made Ireland the focus of much attention in recent years Other countries have openly declared that they want to follow the Irish economic and social model Yet there is no book that gives a comprehensive spatially informed analysis of the Irish experience This book fills that gap Divided into four parts planning and development the economy the political landscape and population and social issues the book explains a particular aspect of Ireland and Irish life The authors reveal how the transformations that have occurred are uneven and unequal in their effects across the country and highlight the challenges now facing Irish society and policy makers
