Lutyens And The Edwardians An English Architect And His Clients:

Lutyens and the Edwardians Jane Brown, 1996 Illustrated with sketches drawings and photographs from family archives Lutyens and the Edwardians tells the story of the clients often ordinary people who made it possible for the architect to fulfil his dreams Sir Edwin Lutyens Clive Aslet, 2024-07-02 Sir Edwin Lutyens 1869 1944 was one of the great architects of the twentieth century His Edwardian country houses surrounded by rhapsodic gardens beguiled clients with their romance and wit After 1918 the war memorials that he created symbolized a grieving nation's sense of loss In the new capital of the British Raj New Delhi the Viceroy's House or Rashtrapati Bhavan had a footprint bigger than Versailles His unfinished Liverpool Cathedral would have rivaled St Peter's in Rome Intensely shy Lutyens hid his personality behind puns and jokes and yet he could be called part mystic a reference to an inner profundity Rich in stories this entertaining and stylish short biography is a major new study incorporating fresh research which shows this most charismatic of architects in a new light

Directory of British Architects, 1834-1914 Antonia Brodie, British Architectural Library, Royal Institute of British Architects, 2001-12-20 A comprehensive biographical directory of some 11 000 British architects who worked between 1834 and 1914 Architecture of England, Scotland, and Wales Nigel R. contributors a generous selection of sample pages and more visit the Encyclopedia of 20th Century Architecture website Focusing on architecture from all regions of the world this three volume set profiles the twentieth century's vast chronicle of architectural achievements both within and well beyond the theoretical confines of modernism Unlike existing works this encyclopedia examines the complexities of rapidly changing global conditions that have dispersed modern architectural types movements styles and building practices across traditional geographic and cultural boundaries Architect's Drawings

Kendra Schank Smith, 2006-08-11 The sketch is a window into the architect's mind As creative designers architects are interested in how other architects particularly successful ones think through the use of drawings to approach their work Historically designers have sought inspiration for their own work through an insight into the minds and workings of people they often regard as geniuses This collection of sketches aims to provide this insight Here for the first time a wide range of world famous architects sketches from the Renaissance to the present day can be seen in a single volume The sketches have been selected to represent the concepts or philosophies of the key movements in architecture in order to develop an overall picture of the role of the sketch in the development of architecture The book illustrates the work of designers as diverse as Andrea Palladio Erich Mendelsohn Sir Edwin Lutyens Gianlorenzo Bernini Le Corbusier Michelangelo Alvar Aalto Sir John Soane Francesco Borromini Walter Gropius and contemporary architects Tadao Ando Zaha Hadid and Frank Gehry to name but a few Each chronologically placed sketch is accompanied by text providing details about the architect's life a look at the sketch in context and the connection to specific buildings where appropriate Style media and meaning are also discussed developing an explanation of the architect's thinking and intentions As creative designers themselves architects are interested in how other architects particularly successful ones think and draw and approach their work Historically designers have sought inspiration for their own work through an insight into the minds and workings of people they often regard as geniuses This collection of sketches aims to provide this insight Listed chronologically each sketch will be accompanied by a text which provides A short synopsis history of the architect's life a look at the sketch in this context the connection to a specific building where appropriate techniques of the sketch style and media meaning what the sketch shows about the architect's thinking and intentions followed by a select bibliography for each section Medievalism and Orientalism J. Ganim, 2016-04-30 This unique study traces fundamental parallels between medieval European and Middle Eastern cultures By examining sources in cultural history literature and architecture this book reveals mutual influences evident in the development of the current conception of the Middle Ages Edwin Lutyens Gavin Stamp, 2009-06-16 Edwin Lutyens 1869 1944 perhaps the greatest British architect of the twentieth century was introduced by garden designer Gertrude Jekyll his celebrated collaborator to Edward Hudson the founder of the great British magazine Country Life in 1889 Hudson thereafter did all he could to promote the work of a man he admired without reservation commissioning Lutyens to design the magazine's offices in Covent Garden in 1904 as well as three country houses Country Life published articles about virtually all his buildings shortly after their completion recording them as the architect intended creating an unparalleled visual archive which is the source for this selection of outstanding photographs of Lutyens's domestic architecture Gavin Stamp's authoritative introduction places Lutyens firmly among the giants of architecture an architect of rare genius and humanity His selection of twenty two houses representative of all the phases of Lutyens's career illustrates the architect's dual achievements as a renewer of both vernacular tradition and of the Classical language of architecture Debate continues about Lutyens's place in modern architecture but his legacy of some of the most inventive and romantic examples of British domestic architecture is unquestionable There are superb examples of his Surrey vernacular style with its gables timber and sweeping planes of tiled roof such as Fulbrook House one of his earliest masterpieces Deanery Garden designed with the garden in mind for Hudson early Arts and Crafts houses such as Goddards and Little Thakeham his carefully composed Classical houses such as Heathcote and his grandest country house of all Middleton Park built between the two World Wars Here too are examples of his brilliant enlargements and alterations to existing buildings such as Lindisfarne Castle and his creation of the epitome of castle style Castle Drogo This pictorial survey culminates in Lutyens's most famous creation Viceroy's House in New Delhi one of the greatest buildings in the world Founded in 1897 Country Life from the outset published remarkable photographs and the huge influence the magazine exerted was nowhere more apparent than in its unprecedented championship of Edwin Lutyens whose buildings it promoted for almost fifty years For this book two hundred photographs have been beautifully reproduced from the Country Life archive and combined with Gavin Stamp's illuminating essay provide a unique survey of one of Britain's foremost architects Mistress Anthony Fletcher, Ruth M.

Larsen, 2025-08-05 An insightful hugely engaging new history of elite women and the country house from the sixteenth to the twentieth century Grand houses can be found across the countryside of England and Wales From the Stuart and Georgian periods to the Edwardian and Victorian these buildings were once home to the aristocratic families of the nation But what was life like for the mistresses of these great houses How much power and influence did they really have Anthony Fletcher and Ruth M Larsen explore the lives of country house mistresses Focusing on eighteen women and spanning five centuries they look at the ways in which elite women not only shaped the house household and family but also had an impact on society culture and politics within their estates and beyond We meet Brilliana Harley who defended her castle at Brampton Bryan Frances Boscawen who oversaw the building of Hatchlands and Lady Mary Elcho who preserved her secret life as mistress to Arthur Balfour This is a fascinating account of the country house that puts women's experiences centre stage Reginald McKenna Martin Farr, 2004-04-30 Reginald McKenna has never been the subject of scholarly attention This was partly due to his own preference for appearing at the periphery of events even when ostensibly at the centre and the absence of a significant collection of private papers This new book redresses the neglect of this major statesman and financier partly through the natural advance of historical research and partly by the discoveries of missing archival material McKenna's role is now illuminated by his own reflections and by the correspondence of friends and colleagues including Asquith Churchill Keynes Baldwin Bonar Law MacDonald and Chamberlain McKenna's presence at the hub of political life in the first half of the century is now clear in the radical Liberal governments of 1905-16 where he acted as a lightning conductor for the party during the war where he served as the Prime Minister's deputy and the principal voice for restraint in the conduct of the war and as chairman of the world's largest bank where until his death in office aged eighty he prompted progressive policies to deal with the issues of war debt trade mass unemployment and the return to gold Modernism, 1910-1945 Jane

Goldman, 2017-04-29 This essential guide explores and celebrates the rise and development of modernist and avant garde literatures and theories in the period 1910-1945 from Imagism to the Apocalypse movement Jane Goldman charts transitions in writing reading performing and publishing practices and in international groupings and regroupings of writers and artists and interrogates the term Modernism which labels the era Goldman introduces students to the work of many canonical high modernist writers such as Ezra Pound T S Eliot W B Yeats James Joyce and Virginia Woolf and samples the work of other important modernist figures including Nathanael West John Rodker Aldous Huxley and the Harlem Renaissance poets

Cities of Affluence and Anger Peter Kalliney, 2015-10-29 Providing a compact literary history of the twentieth century in England Cities of Affluence and Anger studies the problematic terms of national identity during England's transition from an imperial power to its integration in the global cultural marketplace While the countryside had been the dominant symbol of Englishness throughout the previous century modern literature began to turn more and more to the city to redraw the boundaries of a contemporary cultural polity The urban class system paradoxically still functioned as a marker of wealth status and hierarchy throughout this long period of self examination but it also became a way to project a common culture and mitigate other forms of difference Local class politics were transformed in such a way that enabled the English to reframe a highly provisional national unity in the context of imperial disintegration postcolonial immigration and later globalization Kalliney plots the decline of the country house novel through an analysis of Forster's Howards End and Waugh's Brideshead Revisited each ruthless in its sabotage of the trope of bucolic harmony The traditionally pastoral focus of English fiction gives way to a high modernist urban narrative exemplified by Woolf's Mrs Dalloway and later to realists such as Osborne and Sillitoe through whose work Kalliney explores postwar urban expansion and the cultural politics of the welfare state Offering fresh new readings of Lessing's The Golden Notebook and Rushdie's The Satanic Verses the author considers the postwar appropriation of domesticity the emergence of postcolonial literature and the renovation of travel narratives in the context of globalization Kalliney suggests that it is largely one city London through which national identity has been reframed How and why this transition came about is a process that Cities of Affluence and Anger depicts with exceptional insight and originality
