Spaces of Spirituality Nadia Bartolini, Sara MacKian, Steve Pile, 2018-02-15 Spirituality is too often subsumed under the heading of religion and treated as much the same kind of thing Yet spirituality extends far beyond the spaces of religion The spiritual makes geography strange challenging the relationship between the known and the unknown between the real and the ideal and prompting exciting possibilities for charting the ineffable spaces of the divine which lie somehow beyond geography In setting itself that task this book pushes the boundaries of geographies of religion to bring into direct focus questions of spirituality By seeing religion through the lens of practice rather than as a set of beliefs geographies of religion can be interpreted much more widely bringing a whole range of other spiritual practices and spaces to light The book is split into three sections each contextualised with an editors introduction to explore the spaces of spiritual practice the spiritual production of space and spiritual transformations This book intends to open to up new questions and approaches through the theme of spirituality pushing the boundaries on current topics and introducing innovative new ideas including esoteric or radical spiritual practices This landmark book not only captures a significant moment in geographies of spirituality but acts as a catalyst for future work

Postcolonialism Tariq Jazeel, 2019-02-22 Postcolonialism is a book that examines the influence of postcolonial theory in critical geographical thought and scholarship Aimed at advanced level students and researchers the book is a lively stimulating and relevant introduction to postcolonial geography that elaborates on the critical interventions in social cultural and political life this important subfield is poised to make The book is structured around three intersecting parts Spaces Identity hybridity Knowledge that broadly follow the trajectory of postcolonial studies since the late 1970s It comprises ten main chapters each of which is situated at the intersections of postcolonialism and critical human geography In doing so Postcolonialism develops three key arguments First that postcolonialism is best conceived as an intellectually creative and practical set of methodologies or approaches for critically engaging existing manifestations of power and exclusion in everyday life and in taken as given spaces Second that postcolonialism is at its core concerned with the politics of representation both in terms of how people and space are represented but also the politics surrounding who is able to represent themselves and on what whose terms Third the book argues that postcolonialism itself is an inherently geographical intellectual enterprise despite its origins in literary theory In developing these arguments and addressing a series of relevant and international case studies and examples throughout Postcolonialism not only demonstrates the importance of postcolonial theory to the contemporary critical geographical imagination It also argues that geographers have much to offer to continued theorizations and workings of postcolonial theory politics and intellectual debates going forward This is a book that brings critical analyses of the continued and omnipresent legacies of colonialism and imperialism to the heart of human geography but also one that returns an avowedly critical geographical disposition to the core of interdisciplinary postcolonial studies

Hidden Hands and Divided Landscapes Anoma Pieris, 2009-02-28 During the nineteenth century the colonial Straits Settlements of Singapore Penang and Melaka were established as free ports of British trade in Southeast Asia and proved attractive to large numbers of regional migrants Following the abolishment of slavery in 1833 the Straits government transported convicts from the East India Company's Indian presidencies to the settlements as a source of inexpensive labor The prison became the primary experimental site for the colonial plural society and convicts were graduated by race and the labor needed for urban construction Hidden Hands and Divided Landscapes investigates how a political system aimed at managing ethnic communities in the larger material context of the colonial urban project was first imagined and tested through the physical segregation of the colonial prison It relates the story of a city Singapore and a contemporary city state whose plural society has its origins in these historical divisions A description of the evolution of the ideal plan for a plural city across the three settlements is followed by a detailed look at Singapore's colonial prison Chapters trace the prison's development and its dissolution across the urban landscape through the penal labor system The author demonstrates the way in which racial politics were inscribed spatially in the division of penal facilities and how the map of the city was reconfigured through convict labor Later chapters describe penal resistance first through intimate stories of penal life and then through a discussion of organized resistance in festival riots Eventually the plural city ideal collapsed into the hegemonic urban form of the citadel where a quite different military vision of the city became evident Hidden Hands and Divided Landscapes is a fascinating and thoroughly original study in urban history and the making of multiethnic society in Singapore It will compel readers to rethink the ways in which colonial urban history postcolonial urbanism and governance have been theorized by scholars and represented by governments      Beyond Bawa David Robson, 2007 Takes a look at Geoffrey Bawa's life and career and at the legacy of his influence through the work of contemporary architects working across southeast Asia
