Understanding Hospitals in Changing Health Systems Antonio Durán, Stephen Wright, 2019-11-27 This timely book provides insight into the changing role of the hospital in the face of technological organizational innovation and ever tightening health budgets James Barlow Imperial College Business School UK This book covers various relevant aspects of the hospital in different states and contexts Underlining the importance of business models for future hospitals this publication presents models of care from a historic and a current perspective All authors possess a deep insight into different health care systems not only as scholars but as experts working for world renowned health policy institutions such as the World Health Organization the World Bank or the European Observatory for Health Systems Siegfried Walch Management Center Innsbruck Austria For an organisation like mine representing those involved in the strategic planning of healthcare infrastructure this book provides invaluable insights into what really matters now and for the future in the complex and contentious field of hospital development Jonathan Erskine European Health Property Network Netherlands This book seeks to reframe current policy discussions on hospitals Healthcare services turn expensive economic resources people capital pharmaceuticals energy materials into care and cure Hospitals concentrate the use and the cost of these resources particularly highly trained people expensive capital and embedded technologies But other areas of health such as public health and primary care seem to attract more attention and affection at least within the health policy community How to make sense of this paradox Hospitals choose or are assigned to deliver certain parts of care packages They are organised to do this via business models These necessarily incorporate models of care the processes of dealing with patients The activity needs to be governed in the widest senses Rational decisions need to be taken about both the care and the resources to be used This book pulls these elements together to stimulate a debate

Hospital-Based Health Technology Assessment Laura Sampietro-Colom, Janet Martin, 2017-01-23 A timely work describing how localized hospital based health technology assessment HB HTA complements general arms length HTA agency efforts and what has been the collective global impact of HB HTA across the globe While HB HTA has gained significant momentum over the past few years expertise in the field and information on the operation and organization of HB HTA has been scattered This book serves to bring this information together to inform those who are currently working in the field of HTA at the hospital regional national or global level In addition this book is intended for decision makers and policy makers with a stake in determining the uptake and decommissioning of new and established technologies in the hospital setting HTA has traditionally been performed at the National Regional level by HTA Agencies typically linked to governments Yet hospitals are the main entry door for most health technologies HTs Hospital decision makers must undertake multiple high stakes investment and disinvestment decisions annually for innovative HTs usually without adequate information Despite the existence of arms length HTA Agencies inadequate information is available to hospital decision makers either because relevant HTA reports are not yet released at the time of entry of new technologies to the field or because even when the report exists the information contained is insufficient to clarify the contextualized informational needs of hospital decision makers Therefore there has recently been a rising trend toward hospital based HTA units and programs These units programs complement the work of National Regional HTA Agencies by providing the key and relevant evidence needed by hospital decision makers in their specific hospital context and within required decision making timelines The emergence of HB HTA is creating a comprehensive HTA ecosystem across health care levels which creates better bridges for knowledge translation through relevance and timeliness
