Knapp,1999-01-01 It has been said that for the Chinese a house is a living symbol one endowed with meaning and the result of conscious action China s Living Houses is the first book in any language to explore comprehensively the extraordinarily complex links among folk beliefs and household ornamentation across time space and social class Well written and copiously illustrated it reveals dwellings as dynamic entities that express the vitality of Chinese families as each journeys through life The World of Khubilai Khan James C. Y. Watt, 2010 Published in conjunction with an exhibition held at the Metropolitan Museum of Art New York Sept 28 2010 Jan 2 2011 Historical Dictionary of Taoism Julian F. Pas, 1998-06-04 Taoism is often described as the smallest and least known of China's historical Three Teachings which also include Confucianism and Buddhism This book provides a readable overview while simultaneously giving sufficient detail about the intricate and beautiful complexities of Taoism A lengthy introduction deals with the historical development of Taoism including its current situation within the world It outlines the basic teachings concepts and writings and also describes their historical significance It also presents viewpoints on the crucial debate concerning whether Taoism is a religion a philosophy or both The dictionary section of the book presents the concepts persons rituals beliefs and historically significant events of Taoism in great detail The entries move fluidly between current teachings in Taoism and their historical antecedents Also included is a helpful chronology of Taoist history as well as notes on the romanization of Chinese This book should not be overlooked by those who want a full study of this influential philosophical system Chinese Art in Detail Carol Michaelson, Jane Portal, 2006 Drawing on the British Museum's extensive collection this book explores the traditional hierarchy of materials and techniques reaching back as far as the Han Dynasty in the third century BC In the history and character of the works under scrutiny this sumptuously illustrated book conveys an understanding of Chinese art in all its great variety Inventing Afterlives Regina M. Janes, 2018-07-31 Why is belief in an afterlife so persistent across times and cultures And how can it coexist with disbelief in an afterlife Most modern thinkers hold that afterlife belief serves such important psychological and social purposes as consoling survivors enforcing morality dispensing justice or giving life meaning Yet the earliest and some more recent afterlives strikingly fail to satisfy those needs In Inventing Afterlives Regina M. Janes proposes a new theory of the origins of the hereafter rooted in the question that a dead body raises where has the life gone Humans then and now in communities and as individuals ponder what they would want or experience were they in that body From this endlessly recurring situation afterlife narratives develop in all their complexity variety and ingenuity Exploring afterlives from Egypt to Sumer among Jews Greeks and Romans to Christianity's advent and Islam's rise Janes reveals how little concern ancient afterlives had with morality In south and east Asia karmic rebirth makes morality self-enforcing and raises a new problem how to stop re-dying The British enlightenment Janes argues invented the now widespread wish-fulfilling afterlife and illustrates how afterlives change She also considers the surprising afterlife of afterlives among modern artists and writers who no longer believe in worlds beyond this one Drawing on a variety of religious traditions contemporary literature and film primatology cognitive science and evolutionary psychology Janes shows that in asking what happens after we die we define the worlds we inhabit and the values by which we live The Beaten Track of Science R. BOOK JACKET Individual and Collective Memory Consolidation Thomas J. Anastasio, Kristen Ann Ehrenberger, Patrick Watson, Wenyi Zhang, 2021-08-03. An argument that individuals and collectives form memories by analogous processes and a case study of collective retrograde amnesia. We form individual memories by a process known as consolidation: the conversion of immediate and fleeting bits of information into a stable and accessible representation of facts and events. These memories provide a version of the past that helps us navigate the present and is critical to individual identity. In this book, Thomas Anastasio, Kristen Ann Ehrenberger, Patrick Watson, and Wenyi Zhang propose that social groups form collective memories by analogous processes. Using facts and insights from neuroscience, psychology, anthropology, and history, they describe a single process of consolidation with analogous, not merely comparable, manifestations on any level, whether brain, family, or society. They propose a three-in-one model of memory consolidation composed of a buffer, a relator, and a generalizer, all within the consolidating entity that can explain memory consolidation phenomena on individual and collective levels. When consolidation is disrupted by traumatic injury to a brain structure known as the hippocampus, memories in the process of being consolidated are lost. In individuals, this is known as retrograde amnesia. The authors hypothesize a social hippocampus and argue that disruption at the collective level can result in collective retrograde amnesia. They offer the Chinese Cultural Revolution, 1966-1976, as an example of trauma to the social hippocampus and present evidence for the loss of recent collective memory in mainland Chinese populations that experienced the Cultural Revolution.
