Hamburg,Beatrix A. Hamburg,2004 With a view to deepening our understanding of sources of hatred and prejudice this book uses a developmental and evolutionary perspective to explore and explain the process by which our beliefs are conveyed to the youngest members of society Discussing the psychological obstacles to peaceful relations between groups the authors focus on the developmental processes by which we can work to diminish ethnocentrism prejudice and hatred which children learn from a very early age Until now scholarship and practice in international relations have gravely neglected crucial psychological aspects of these terrible problems and have not yet explored the educational opportunities related to them

Addressing these promising lines of inquiry and innovation this book fosters a more humane and less violent development in childhood and adolescence Educators religious leaders developmental and social psychologists will find this a valuable resource as will a socially concerned segment of the public who are looking for practical ways to work for peace

Doing the Best I Can Kathryn Edin,Timothy J. Nelson,2013-06-01 Across the political spectrum unwed fatherhood is denounced as one of the leading social problems of today Doing the Best I Can is a strikingly rich paradigm shifting look at fatherhood among inner city men often dismissed as deadbeat dads Kathryn Edin and Timothy J Nelson examine how couples in challenging straits come together and get pregnant so quickly without planning The authors chronicle the high hopes for forging lasting family bonds that pregnancy inspires and pinpoint the fatal flaws that often lead to the relationship s demise They offer keen insight into a radical redefinition of family life where the father child bond is central and parental ties are peripheral Drawing on years of fieldwork Doing the Best I Can shows how mammoth economic and cultural changes have transformed the meaning of fatherhood among the urban poor Intimate interviews with more than 100 fathers make real the significant obstacles faced by low income men at every step in the familial process from the difficulties of romantic relationships to decision making dilemmas at conception to the often celebratory moment of birth and finally to the hardships that accompany the early years of the child s life and beyond
