Leadership and Reform Tapio Kanninen, 2023-09-14 This series aims to provide authoritative guidance on all aspects of the law of international organizations. This area of law has over the years developed into a separate field of study within the discipline of public international law. While it covers the law of individual organizations such as the United Nations, the World Trade Organization, the International Criminal Court, and the European Union, it also includes thematic institutional law topics such as membership, decision making, legal personality, and responsibility of international organizations. In these and other areas, international organizations face similar questions and share a number of common characteristics. The series aims to include works written by practitioners as well as academics. Evaluation of Management and Planning Systems Nick L.

Kinds of faculty workload data that can be obtained from college and faculty reports are examined along with potential problems in workload studies. A main research concern is deciding which faculty activities should be considered as workload. Types of data that are sometimes used in colleges: faculty workload formulas, concern student credit hours, faculty contract hours, and student faculty ratios. However, these measures ignore noninstructional time, and they assume that the same amount of time is involved in teaching all three credit courses regardless of discipline and course level. Faculty reports on their activities are another information source using interviews, diaries, or work samples. Possible research problems include a biased sample, the time of survey administration, the time period covered, time allocation, and study reliability and validity. Factors that can affect workload data include demographic factors, discipline, country, institution, scheduling factors, class size, course level, course type, preparations, and individual factors, rank, gender, and individual differences. Ten recommendations are offered concerning such issues as the sponsorship of the study, study methods, the effect of teaching load on scholarship, and the relationship between teaching load and teaching effectiveness. This book addresses the counterproductive conditions in which part-time and non-tenure track composition faculty must teach using case studies, local narratives, and models for ethical employment practices.
